The Minstrel In Maryland

Watched by broodmare man William (Smitty) Short and stud groom Paul Gsell, the world's most expensive horse grazes at Windfields Farm, where his sire Northern Dancer stands.

By Snowden Carter

Maryland's newest stallion is a little fellow — a chestnut splashed with lots of white.

"He stands 15 hands two and three-quarter inches," says Russell Alexander. "He's small. But he's not as small as his daddy. His daddy stands 15 hands one and a half inches."

Who are these little horses?

The chestnut is The Minstrel, the world's most expensive horse following his recent syndication at $9 million. His daddy is Northern Dancer, the nation's leading stallion in 1977. Northern Dancer was syndicated for $2.4 million seven years ago.

Son and sire were both bred by E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm. Both were foaled in Canada and both are now stallions standing in Maryland. Both were outstanding race horses, and, as noted above, both are approximately six inches shorter than Forego.

Alexander, manager of Mr. Taylor's private farm in Chesapeake City, recalls that The Minstrel was shipped from Canada to Maryland in October of his weanling year. "We knew," said Alexander, "that he would be sold at auction as a yearling, so it was our job to get him in top condition for that sale."

Before leaving the farm to go to Keeneland for the 1975 sales, The Minstrel was inspected by Mr. Taylor's vice president in charge of horse operations, Joe Thomas.

Says Alexander: "Joe and I went over the entire yearling sales crop right carefully. Then we selected the one that we thought would make the best race horse. I picked a Dr. Fager who has never done much of anything. Joe picked The Minstrel."

The Minstrel was bought at Keeneland for $200,000 by the British Bloodstock Agency as agent for Robert Sangster, operator of football pools in England. Sangster accepted some partners (Scottish landowner Simon Fraser, Irish breeder John Magnier, and Irish trainer Vincent O'Brien) in his venture, and no one has ever had cause for regret.

On the race courses in England and Ireland, The Minstrel was an undisputed champion. He won the English Derby, Irish Derby and the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes in addition to several other lesser stakes. His earnings total $548,000.

When syndicated in August, The Minstrel was scheduled to compete in the Arc and the Washington (D.C.) International. Subsequently, both races were dropped from his schedule for reasons which had nothing to do with the colt's excellent condition.

The Minstrel arrived in Maryland in early September 100 per cent sound and fully able to compete in the Laurel race. But because his British trainer, Vincent O'Brien, could not train him for the mile and a half grass classic, it was decided that his immediate retirement was the more prudent course to take. "After all," says Alexander, "what more reputation can he gain. He's a champion, and an outstanding one at that. If he won at Laurel he wouldn't be gaining greater fame than he already has — but if he lost, well, his reputation could be hurt."

So as a 3-year-old The Minstrel was retired. The syndicate which owns him consists of 36 shares valued at $250,000 per share.

Although Alexander was in charge of The Minstrel as a yearling, the colt now comes under the direction of Ben Miller. Alexander and Miller head up the private and public farms owned in Maryland by Mr. Taylor. Stallions stand at the public Windfields, hence Miller's control of the horse.

Mary Rude of the MHBA visits 16-year-old Northern Dancer, a leading sire worldwide.

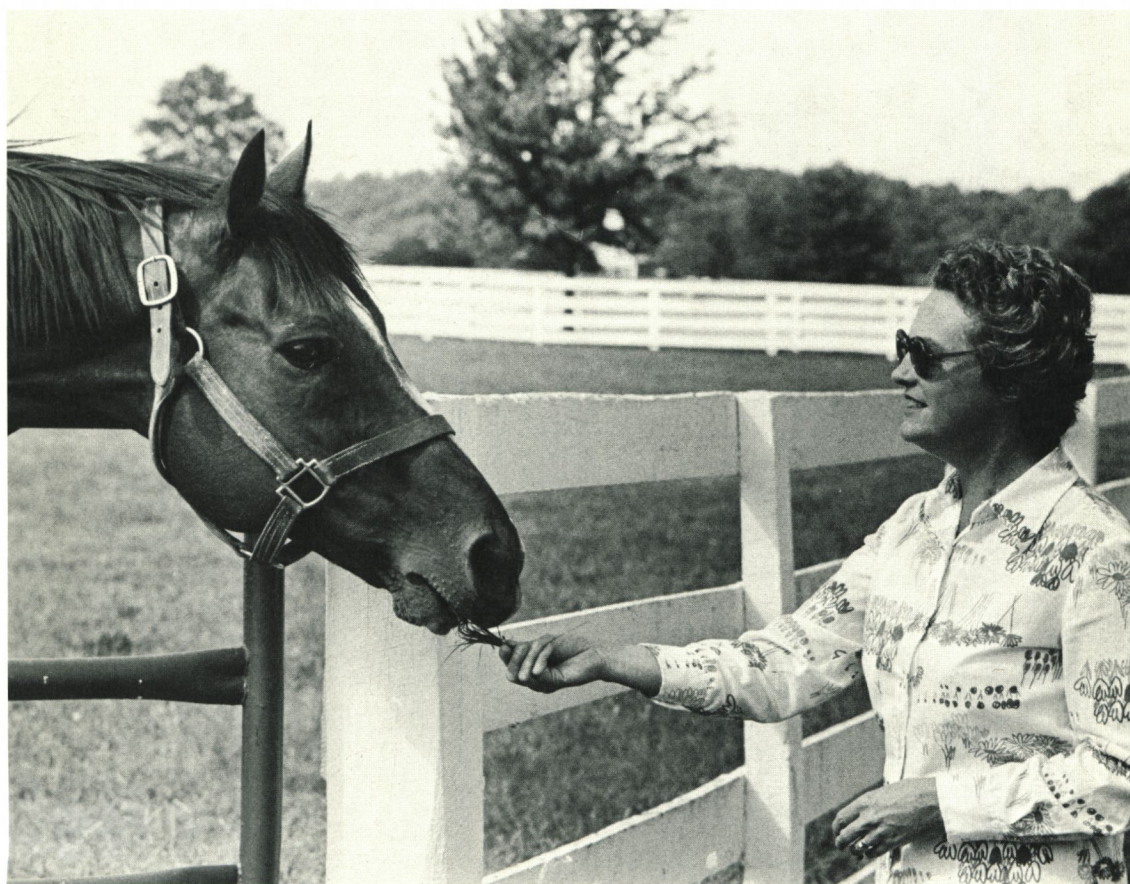

Asked as to his title at Windfields, Miller said: "Right now (September 30) I'm assistant manager. Bob Bennett is the manager but he's retiring on November 1." (Bennett, 68, won over $680,000 last March when his ticket on the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes was drawn.)

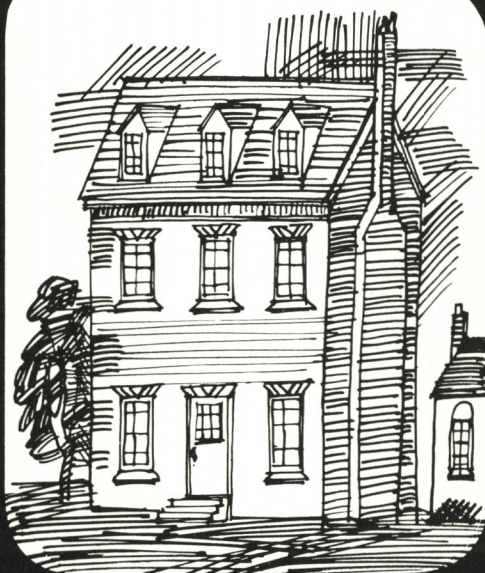

About The Minstrel, Miller says: "He has an unbelievably nice disposition. He's just no problem to us at all. His groom (Paul Gsell) can walk right up to him in the field and put a shank on him.

"We haven't test bred him yet, and I really can't say as to when that will happen. We don't expect that to be much of a problem."

The Minstrel's $9 million price tag exceeds What A Pleasure's $8 million set in 1976. Other top-priced syndicate-owned stallions include Wajima ($7.2 million), Secretariat ($6.08 million), and Nijinsky II ($5.44 million).

Mr. Taylor, the world's leading breeder, is also the breeder of Nijinsky II. □

$90,000 Top Bid At Sales

Topped by a $90,000 Canadian-bred filly, the 17th annual Eastern Fall Yearling Sale was the best ever held with records being set for both gross receipts and average price.

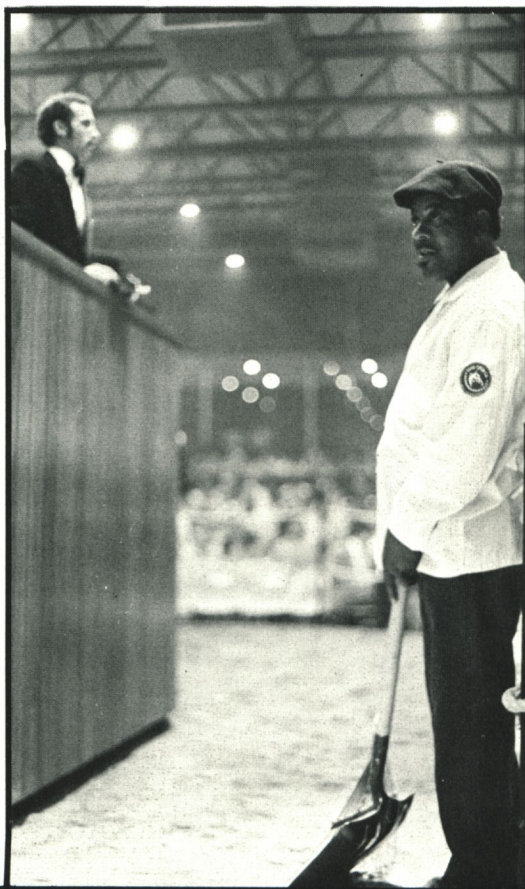

The two-night auction held last month at Timonium found 152 yearlings selling for $1,536,300, an average of $10,107. The gross represented a 5 per cent gain over 1976 figures while the average was up 17 per cent. Highest previous gross was registered in 1973 ($1,501,900), while the highest previous average was last year's $8,612.

But there was still unhappiness among many of the consignors. This was shown by the fact that a record number of 40 yearlings were bought in, that figure representing slightly more than 20 per cent of the 192 which were led into the ring. The chargebacks averaged $8,715, compared to $10,107 for those sold.

Leading consignor was George Gardiner's Gardiner Farms Ltd. of Caledon East, which is located 18 miles north of Toronto. Mr. Gardiner sold six for $179,700, averaging $29,950. Included in the Gardiner consignment was the Northern Dancer filly who topped the sale at $90,000 and the sale's second highest price, a colt by Sham who brought $40,000. Both were purchased by E. P. Taylor, the famed Canadian industrialist who maintains breeding farms in Maryland and Canada.

Although foaled at her consignor's Toronto farm, the sales topper has strong Maryland ties.

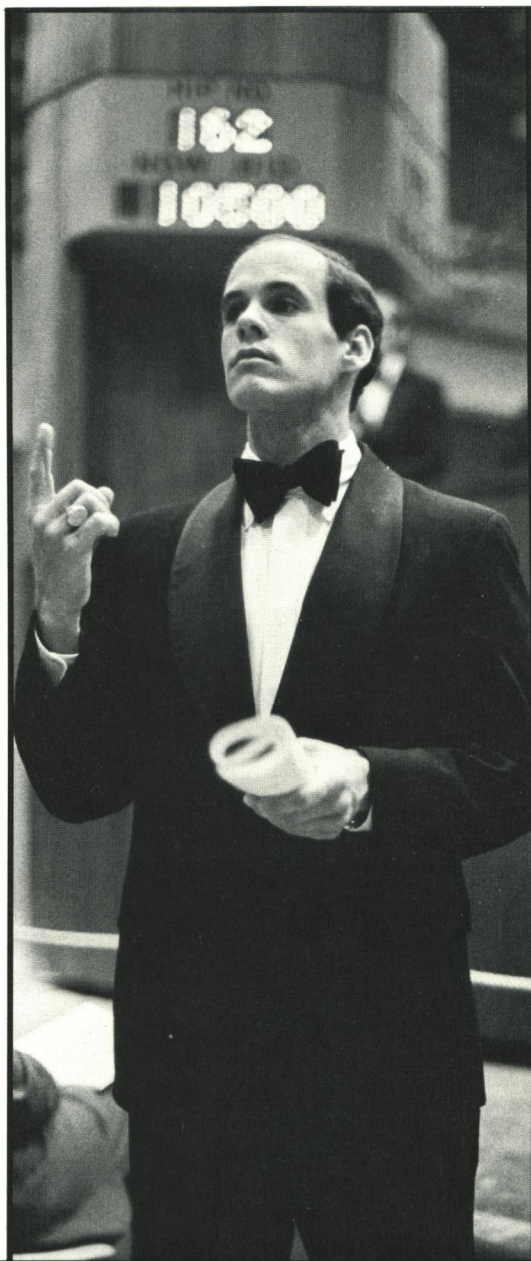

Her sire (16-year-old champion stallion Northern Dancer) stands at Mr. Taylor's Windfields Farm in Chesapeake City, and it was to this Maryland farm that the broodmare Doris White was shipped for matings with Northern Dancer in 1974 and 1975. She conceived in both those years, producing Norsk in 1975 and the unnamed yearling filly the following season. Norsk, a 2-year-old colt, sold for $100,000 at a Woodbine auction sale as a yearling and is already a stakes winner in Canada.

Although Gardiner Farms had never before consigned to the Eastern Fall Sales, the farm has sold here before in another auction. "We sent some broodmares and horses of racing age down here last winter for your February auction," said farm manager

Michael Byrne, "and were quite pleased with the prices. So we thought we'd try your market with our yearlings. We're looking for more exposure in the states and Maryland is only a 12 to 14-hour van trip from our farm."

Mr. Gardiner, a stockbroker in Toronto, has been breeding horses in Canada for 16 years. Byrne says that in eight of the past nine years Mr. Gardiner's racing stable was the Canadian leader. The farm regularly sells at auction approximately one-third of its yearlings.

Photographs by Skip Ball and Jay Szymanski

The quality of Gardiner's six yearlings easily earned for that farm the No. 1 spot among the sale's consignors for both gross ($179,700) and average ($29,950).

Mr. Taylor's Windfields Farm, which began consigning to the Eastern Fall in 1971, had been the leader from 1971 through 1976 but this year finished second in gross receipts with $138,500.

At the other end of the sale were 16 unhappy potential sellers who bought back all of the horses which they had consigned. Of those 16 consignors, 14 offered only one horse, one presented two horses and one attempted to sell three.

Noting that the average price for chargebacks was lower than the sale's average, Fasig-Tipton Company president John M. S. Finney said: "Generally speaking you can tell whether a sale is a success or not by the average price on the chargebacks. If they're lower than the sale's average price, then it's a good, strong sale. If they're higher than the average price, then you know that the big money isn't there."

Ten horses sold for $20,000 or more. They were evenly divided as to session, five selling each night. Sires of seven of the ten either stand in Maryland now or were standing here at time of death. The Maryland stallions were Northern Dancer, Halo, King's Bishop, Protanto, Search For Gold, Rambunctious, and Rock Talk. The three out-of-state stallions were Sham, Cyane and *Cougar II.

Three purchasers — E. P. Taylor, Beelu Stable and Mrs. Albert Lowenthal — each bought two of the top priced ten. Mr. Taylor took the two most expensive (both consigned by Gardiner Farms) for a total of $130,000. Beelu acquired a Halo filly and a Protanto colt for $68,500, while Mrs. Lowenthal invested $55,500 in a King's Bishop colt and a Search For Gold colt.

Other buyers of the top ten included Hugh A. Grant (a Cyane filly for $26,500), J. Harlan Williams, Jr. (a *Cougar II filly for $25,000), Samuel J. Berg (a Rambunctious colt for $21,000) and Tinton Falls Stable (a Rock Talk colt for $20,000).

Except for Mr. Grant all purchasers of the top ten either live in Maryland or are breeders in Maryland.

Of the 40 horses charged back to their consignors, five were bought in on bids of $15,000 or more.

The "honor" of having the most expensive chargeback went to Glade Valley Farm as agent for Peter Fuller. Mr. Fuller bought back his Quadrangle colt out of Traffic Note for $30,000.

Others in the high-priced chargeback category included two Icecapade colts ($19,-

Stallion Averages

Leading stallion for the Eastern Fall Sales among sires represented by two or more yearlings was Cyane who stands at Blue Ridge Farm in Upper-ville, Va. Owned by a syndicate, the 18-year-old son of *Turn-to commands a live foal fee of $10,000.

Syndicate-owned Northern Dancer had the single highest priced offspring at $90,000, but this Maryland stallion had only one yearling in the auction.

Among those with two or more offspring in the sale, Cyane held a narrow lead ($23,000 average compared to $21,000 average) over Maryland-based King's Bishop.

Windfields' Yearling Deals

Although E. P. Taylor failed for the first time since 1970 to top the list of leading consignors, he was still responsible for more dollar transactions than any other person at the auction.

For the 11 yearlings sold by him, he received $138,500. Then the owner of Windfields Farm turned around and bought three, spending $147,700. Adding together the two figures, it is seen that Mr. Taylor was responsible for $286,200 in transactions at the Eastern Fall Sales.

Looking at it from another point of view, Mr. Taylor traded 11 of his less promising yearlings for three outstanding individuals. The dollar difference between what he bought and sold was only $9,200.

Purchased by Taylor were the sale's two most expensive yearlings (a filly by Northern Dancer for $90,000 and a colt by Sham for $40,000) and a $17,700 colt sired by the deceased Protanto. All three yearlings were consigned by George Gardiner's Gardiner Farms, located in Canada near Toronto.

Joe Hickey and Joe Thomas of Windfields follow action intently. Behind them is Bayard Sharp. Neathery Batsell (below) was successful bidder on several yearlings.

For a man only 28 years old, John C. Smith owns and bosses a big operation. Along with his wife Nancy, the former pony clubber runs his 70-acre Barnesville Thoroughbred Farm in meticulous fashion, making it a model that few other farm managers can equal.

Neat as a pin and laid out precisely the way they wanted it (the farm had neither buildings nor fences when purchased five years ago), the Montgomery county establishment is a dream-come-true for the young couple who were both raised in the Gaithersburg — Bethesda area.

John and Nancy stand the stallions Quartermaster and Clyde William at their Boyds (Md.) farm. They also care for 13 year-round boarding broodmares plus weanlings, yearlings and four horses which they personally own.

"All of this," says John, "was made possible by my father-in-law who lent us the money to buy the property and then came out himself to help build the barns and fences." John's father-in-law is Dr. Samuel McDowell, a nuclear physicist employed by the Energy Research Development Agency — formerly known as the Atomic Energy Commission.

John, whose older brother is jockey D. D. Smith, comes from a horse-dealing family. Nancy, on the other hand, was bred more to be an ivory tower educator than a horsewoman. She was, in fact, a high school instructor (French and American History) and owns a Master's degree from the University of Maryland.

But it's not as an educator that Nancy gets her kicks.

Her goal is to make Barnesville Thoroughbred Farm a kingpin among Maryland's horse nurseries. And the feeling here is that she and her husband will make it. They've got everything going for them except wealth — and who needs money when you're young, bright, industrious and warm-hearted?

Nancy And John Smith's Dream Comes True At Barnesville Farm

Story by Snowden Carter

Exercise girl Elaina Sheridan entertains the two young Smiths — Brooke, 2, and Todd, 1.

Nancy and John have two children (Brooke, 2, and Todd, 1) and plan to have no more. "I'm out of the broodmare business now," says Nancy about herself. "I'm starting to get myself fit and will be back riding this fall."

It was on horseback that John and Nancy met.

Explains Nancy: "We went to high school (Gaithersburg High School) together but didn't even know each other — because we were different ages and had different classes.

"It was at Bert and Edna Lytle's Otasaga Farm in Dickerson that we eventually met. I was boarding a hunter there and he was a little sticky over fences. John was the Lytles' Number 1 exercise boy. He'd come out every day just to get on one or two of their toughest horses. He was the expert — the troubleshooter.

"Well, when the Lytles saw that I wasn't getting the kind of performance out of my horse that he was capable of giving me, they started making suggestions. And the one suggestion that I heard the most was: 'Get John Smith to ride him.'

"I did what they suggested, and that was how the school teacher came to meet the riding instructor."

Married in 1971, Nancy moved to Red Oak Farm where her husband was manager (having recently succeeded John Barkowski). From Red Oak (owned by Harold Herman and located in Poolesville), the newlyweds moved three months later to Ohio where John went to work for Harvey Culp.

The Smiths stayed in Ohio more than a year (Nancy got a job there as a school teacher), then returned to Maryland when they firmed up the purchase of 30 acres of their present farm. (The farm has since more than doubled in size with the acquisition of an additional 40 acres.)

"When we came back to Maryland," says John, "we rented an apartment in Gaithersburg. Nancy got a job as a school teacher and I went to work on our new property. The first thing I built was a machinery shed. All of my labor was free — it consisted of Nancy's father and brother."

Next came construction of a portion of the beautifully designed and maintained 40-stall horse barn. Labor for that undertaking consisted of "two farmers down the road."

In September, 1973, Barnesville Thoroughbred Farm accepted its first paying customers.

Since then growth has been steady.

"We'll break over 30 yearlings and 2-year-olds this year," says John. "During the breeding season we had 28 outside mares here."

Working with these horses are John's assistant, Bruce Thompson, and his head exercise girl, Elaina Sheridan. They are helped in their chores by two part-time employees.

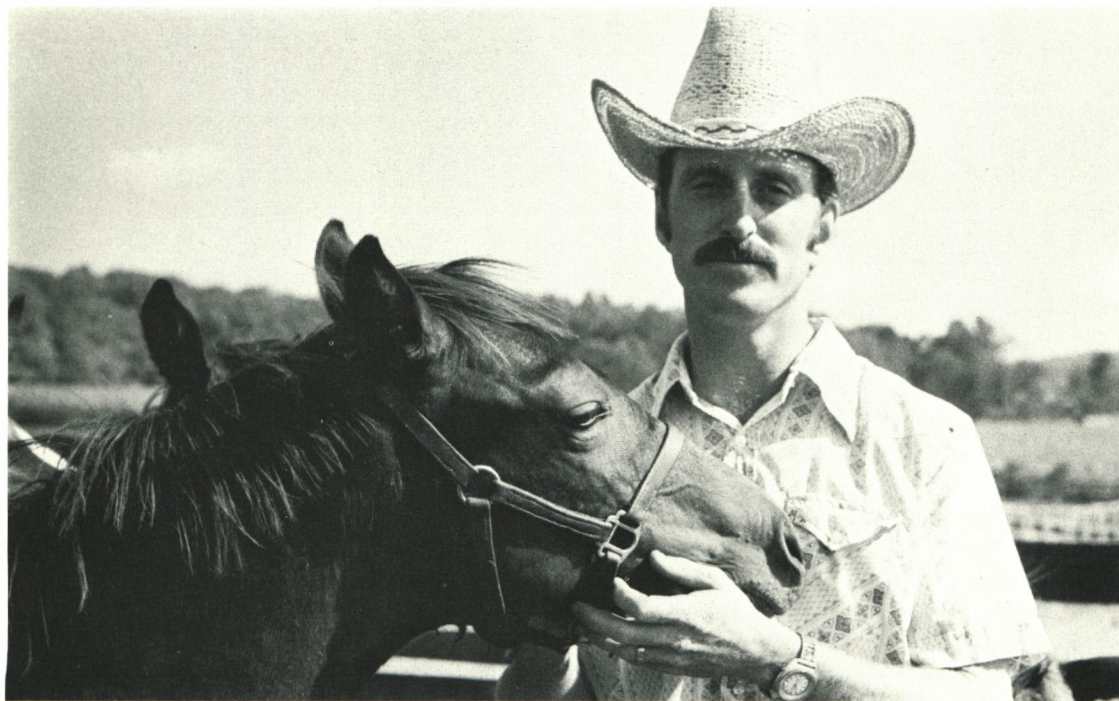

John has no desire to branch out into race track training. "You can't do everything," he explains, "and my responsibilities here on the farm just don't leave enough time for the race track.

"Nancy and I enjoy working with yearlings, and we feel that we do a good job with them. So far our best graduate has been Roman Monk, a stakes winner.

"But on a long-range basis we feel that our breeding operation has more potential. Good broodmares, a decent stallion — you get those and you've really got a solid foundation under your operation.

"We were, for example, able to buy Quartermaster last year from the Murty brothers. He's by Buckpasser out of Queen of the Stage who is by Bold Ruler. Queen of the Stage was this country's champion 2-year-old filly in 1967, and she's a full sister to Reviewer.

"Now with a pedigree like that a man's got a chance. We syndicated Quartermaster at $4,500 a share and stood him for a live foal fee of $1,500.

"Of course, we couldn't tell for sure what kind of reception he'd get here in Maryland. So we kept our fingers crossed and did our best from a promotion standpoint.

"Well, as things turned out, he couldn't have been more popular. We got 36 mares to him — which is certainly plenty for a young horse's first season at stud."

In addition to syndicate-owned Quartermaster, John and Nancy stand Dr. Donald Smith's (no relation) Clyde William for a live foal fee of $500. Clyde William is by Art Market out of Ferry Point by *River War. Foaled in 1971, the chestnut stallion retired with earnings of nearly $130,000.

Says John: "Put those two stallions together and we'd have the ideal horse. Quartermaster has the pedigree (by a champion and out of a champion) while Clyde William has the race record (winner of two stakes).

"We'd like to get a third stallion. Something that we could stand for about $2,500. We've got some leads on a couple of horses and maybe we'll close a deal before 1978 rolls around."

As a buyer and seller of horses, John has long experience.

"My father," he says, "used to be deeply involved in buying and selling riding horses. Sometimes when I was a kid he would have as many as 18 or 20 horses and ponies competing in shows. They were all for sale."

The riders were John, his brother D. D. and his sister Susan.

To their father, Donald F. Smith, horses and ponies were only a sideline. He made his living working for a printing firm in Washington (where he is still employed as an estimator). And on John's maternal side of the family, there were also horse people — the most notable being his mother's father, Charles Via, who was a blacksmith.

Stallions standing at Barnesville are Quartermaster (top), a young son of Buckpasser, and Clyde William, a stakes winner of $130,000.

"I can't remember any time in my life when I wasn't around horses and ponies," says John. "And they've been awfully good to me.

"When I was 9 years old I went to work for Margaret Riggs — a neighbor who has always had horses. Her husband was president of a bank. After I had been there a year, Mr. Riggs opened a checking account for me at his bank.

"Man, I was some kind of impressed by myself. I was the only 10-year-old I knew who could sit down and write his own checks. And I owed it all to horses." □

Fair Hill opened and closed Maryland's fall steeplechase season last month, and, for the first time in 38 years, there were three Saturdays of racing instead of two. Moreover, fans had a chance to see the bright young jumper Leaping Frog win featured races on the first and third days, while also witnessing Mrs. Miles Valentine's Deux Coup capture the $10,000 Grand National.

There was not much fanfare about the opening but rather a quiet self-confidence. Fair Hill had to solve a problem in order to put on the meeting and adding the third Saturday was the solution.

It seems that nearby Delaware Park was forced to conflict with Fair Hill's opening. "Fair Hill ran into this tough situation," explained Charles Colgan, of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, "and they had to decide whether they were going on with their races because of Delaware. But Dale Thiel (race director for the Colonial Cup) went around and drummed up support." Owners and trainers responded enthusiastically, and some even pledged money should the meeting run in the red. To help solve the loss of bettors to Delaware on the first day, a third Saturday was added.

No deficit, however, developed and there were plenty of horses which filled eight races the first Saturday, seven the second, and nine the third. "It was only on the second Saturday," Colgan said, "that we seemed to be faced with a shortage of timber horses. Usually there are plenty, but this seems to be the situation at all the meets, not just Fair Hill."

Although attendance each day was less than that on a single day last fall, the total for the three days was slightly better than the 1976 total of over 23,000. "It was a decent-sized crowd," Colgan added, "and would have been better if it hadn't rained the last day."

Rain made the grass greener that day and also made the turns slippery. Markers had to be placed around one to keep horses off turf which had been dangerously churned up. One accident marred this day — Janon Fisher, Jr.'s Playful fell over the second brush. The big dark bay filly by Spring Double had to be carried off in the horse ambulance and was humanely destroyed when it was found that she had broken her shoulder. Her rider Joey Ruhsam was unhurt.

Highlight of the meeting was the second day's Grand National, a race of two and one-half miles for 4-year-olds and up, which was first run at Morris Park in 1899. The large golden trophy awarded the winner is equally antique. It was won last year by Mrs. Ogden Phipps's 1976 Eclipse Award winner Straight and True, trained by D. Michael Smithwick and ridden by Jerry Fishback. This year Deux Coup won. He is trained by W. Burling Cocks and was ridden by Tom Skiffington. His owner, Mrs. Valentine, races only jumpers, and this most able offspring of Spring Double is one of her homebreds.

In a thrilling race Skiffington brought Deux Coup from next to last to catch Jane F. Clark, II's Naval Person (John Cushman up) at the wire and win by one long chestnut neck.

Deux Coup was unhurried early, settling into sixth position behind the leader, Richard Stokes's Winigo.

By the fourth jump Happy Intellectual, ridden by Joe Aitcheson, had taken the lead. That Aitcheson was riding at all seemed incredible. He had fallen two races before the Grand National and a horse had stepped on his hand. He had put an ice pack on it and taken himself off his mount in the next race. Now here he was leading the field.

At the eleventh Jerry Fishback made his move with Leaping Frog while Salvo and Fire Control began to drop back. By the thirteenth Naval Person started moving to catch Aitcheson as did Deux Coup. Coming into the final turn it was Happy Intellectual, Naval Person, Deux Coup, Winigo and Leaping Frog, tightly bunched. The next to last jump felt a broadside of horses as four met it abreast, Winigo having dropped back. Deux Coup moved up on the inside and saved ground as he met Naval Person. The pair battled it out in the stretch where Deux Coup won by a neck. Leaping Frog was third and Happy Intellectual was fourth.

Before the race both Cocks and Mrs. Valentine doubted whether the 5-year-old gelding could last the two mile distance. Cocks said, "He bowed in both front legs last year at Saratoga when lightning struck nearby and he panicked in his stall. We gave him a year off." Before this accident he was beaten by Crag's Corner in the last two strides of the Lovely Night Handicap.

Until the Grand National Deux Coup had been considered second string by Mrs. Valentine while star of the stable was Tan Jay.

Meeting At Fair Hill

Story by Nancy Boyce

"Tan Jay has been sidelined by a bruised sesamoid," explained Cocks. "Deux Coup will be entered in the Gwathmey if his wheels hold up."

A young jumper who appears to have not only good legs but also lots of ability is Chadds Ford Stable's Leaping Frog. As well as finishing third to Deux Coup, he won the Manly and the Battleship, featured races of the first and third Saturdays.

After the Manly, Doris Segal, one of his owners, smiled broadly and bubbled with enthusiasm as she clutched two trophies and explained about Chadds Ford Stable. "Phyllis Wyeth and I have been in partnership about four years with some successes and some bad luck. Leaping Frog started three times at Saratoga this year and did not win, but this race gives our stable a boost."

Charles Colgan felt Mrs. Segal a bit modest. "Leaping Frog is a top horse," he said. "He's won six races over fences, three last fall, and out of eight starts this year, he's won three and been third four times. He's been out of the money only once and that was in the Turf Writers Handicap at Saratoga. You can't do much better than that."

In all of his races at Fair Hill, Leaping Frog showed he likes to come from behind. In the Manly he trailed for about a mile as Powhatan Stable's Afilador, ridden by Joey Ruhsam, and Mrs. J. Maxwell Moran's Earla Mor, ridden by Joe Octavio, raced in front. Following them were Rokeby Stable's Steady As You Go, Kinross Farm's Tingaling Cool and Mrs. Phipps's Cultivating. At the ninth jump Skiffington moved Tingaling Cool into the lead. Then Steady As You Go fell at the tenth. Next Leaping Frog took off over the eleventh, passed a tired Earla Mor and Afilador, and caught Tingaling Cool at the last brush. He pulled away to win by almost two lengths with Tingaling Cool second and Joe Aitcheson on Cultivating third.

He met almost the same horses again in the Battleship on the last day, but the field was larger. It included the horse that had beaten him in the Turf Writers, Mrs. Michael G. Walsh's Crag's Corner, as well as Mrs. John R. H. Thouron's Ages Ago, Mrs. William Coxe Wright's Feroz II, Beverly Steinman's Don Panta and Neathery Batsell's Orotund. Again Fishback made his move on Leaping Frog at the eleventh, but this time Ages Ago went with him. At the finish it was Leaping Frog, Ages Ago, Steady As You Go, Tingaling Cool and Crag's Corner.

Although timber horses were scarce and did not fill that race on the second day, a few new faces brightened the picture. Notable was Jack Griswold's Too Far Gone, a Maryland-bred, which won the Calvert on the third day and was third in the Trouble Maker on the first day. This race was won by B. Neil Gentry's Traveling Son, ridden by Paddy Neilson, who said afterwards, "He was an easy ride but may not have pulled up sound."

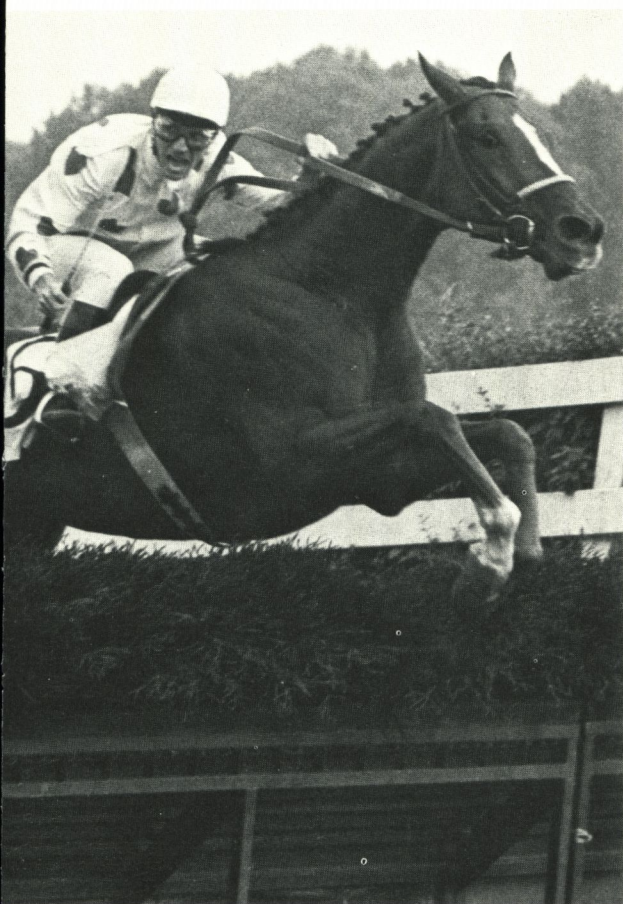

There were six starters in the Trouble Maker and Traveling Son raced to an early lead. In hot pursuit until the seventh fence was Mrs. William Whitescarver's Hot Doge, J. B. Secor up. And up it was for Secor because Hot Doge was starting in his first race over timber. He took off anywhere, but cleared the fences with room to spare, giving Secor a hair-raising ride. At the eighth Too Far Gone overtook Hot Doge and moved to challenge Traveling Son. Next Charles Fenwick, Jr., on his father's Geenada, overtook Too Far Gone at the twelfth fence and held on to finish second with Too Far Gone third.

Geenada, imported from England, will be another horse to watch because although he fell in the Calvert on the last day, he was in front and showed exceptional speed and jumping ability.

When Geenada fell, he was ahead of Too Far Gone by about four lengths and was making a bold run at the head of the stretch. Griswold rode through the stretch standing up in the saddle and waving his whip at the cheering crowd. Next came Neilson on Mrs. Miles Valentine's Heavenly Prophet, which had set the early pace, and then Steve Secor on his mother's Why Worry.

A sleek chestnut by Ben Marshall, Too Far Gone did not look like the same horse that raced here in the spring. Griswold explained, "I bought him from Betty Bird in September, 1976. In November he cut a tendon while he was turned out, so we kept him in a stall all winter. When he came out this spring, he was just recovering. He's in much better shape now and this is his first win at a recognized meet."

Fair Hill Sidelights:

- The Benguala was won by Maryland-bred Orotund because he could stay on his feet when horses were falling all around him. Bred by Mrs. Norton Stenersen and owned by Neathery Batsell of Glen Arm, the dark brown gelding by Piano Jim was ridden by Ross Pearce. The pair won over Rokeby Stable's Khyber Pass after Ages Ago went off course at the sixth brush, Anne duPont's War Reason fell at the fourteenth, and Mrs. Phipps's Cultivating knuckled under at the fifteenth and last jump. It was here that War Reason came over the last jump by himself and stepped on Joe Aitcheson's hand because Aitcheson was still stunned from his fall with Cultivating. There were only five starters.

- The afternoon sun shone through the long silver tails of two front-running speedsters in the Cowentown hurdles. It was a beautiful sight to see Mrs. John R. H. Thouron's Swiss Bank Account and Pillar Farms's Up Like Thunder as they battled each other around a turn. Swiss Bank Account was the eventual winner.

- Mares and fillies have stalls in which to await their races, but riders who happen to be girls still have no place to change except the wall outside the male riders' room.

- Jumpers are about as handsome a group of horses as one could find anywhere, often big, glossy and dappled. As one ex-cavalry officer surveyed the horseflesh in the paddock, he was overheard saying to a friend, "If our fathers had given us horses like these when we were in the army, we'd have been generals." □

Mrs. Miles Valentine's Deux Coup, Tom Skiffington up, leads Happy Intellectual and Joe Aitcheson en route to victory in featured Grand National Steeplechase.

THE MARYLAND HORSE

German Accent At Westphalian Pride

By Snowden Carter

Acting on the conviction that the best mounts for dressage and jumping competitions are indigenous to Germany, 43-year-old Horst Kleinsorg has purchased 28 Hanoverian and Trakehner horses and imported them to his brand new farm in Poolesville, Md.

Mr. Kleinsorg was assistant air attache at the West German embassy in Washington from 1965 through 1968, retiring with the rank of major when his request for a return to flying duty was denied. Remaining in this country following his resignation, Kleinsorg was able to amass great wealth during the past nine years.

"When I resigned from the air force," says Kleinsorg, "I reminded myself of the old German adage which says 'carpenter, stick with your hammer.'

"Well, my hammer was my knowledge of planes. So I went to work for an aircraft company, becoming its export manager. After two years, I formed my own company which dealt in spare parts for aircraft. My wife, Ingrid, and I worked 14 to 18 hours a day, seven days a week. It wasn't easy, but we made a success of it. And then we sold out the company.

"Next I invented a logger — a contraption which transforms newspapers into fireplace logs. I sold out the patent rights in 1975 to the National Agricultural Supply Company.

Horst Kleinsorg has imported Hanoverian and Trakehner horses from Germany to stock his new Westphalian Pride Farm.

"Now I am completely retired. I never expect to work again at anything except improving my farm and my horses. This is the greatest country God ever made. I know that. You know that. And I am distressed that everyone doesn't know that. In my opinion, there is a job for anyone who wants to work."

Kleinsorg and his wife are both blue-eyed blonds. They were born and raised in the province of Westphalia, a part of the old Prussian empire.

"My family's farm," says Horst, "is near Dortmund. Before the army became mechanized my ancestors raised horses for cavalry use. My father was a railroad executive. During the last war he had a rank which would correspond in this country with something between a captain and a major. His job was to repair railroads, make plans for new roads — that sort of thing."

Mrs. Kleinsorg, who married Horst when she was 18, is also a native of Dortmund. She and her husband have two children, Joachim (nicknamed Yogi) and Kornelia. Yogi, 22, is his father's farm foreman and resident horse expert. Kornelia, 20, lives at home but has no real interest in Westphalian Pride Farm's horse operation.

Explaining how he happened to charter an airplane and fly 28 horses from Germany to New York on August 5, Kleinsorg drops his ready smile and fixes his questioner with a stern expression.

"Thoroughbreds," he explains, "are wonderful, beautiful horses. No horse is more handsome. But the Thoroughbred is for racing. He was not meant to be a dressage horse, an open jumper or a three-day horse. He is too highly bred — too fragile. Yet in this country our international riders compete mostly on Thoroughbreds. This is a mistake. In Germany there are horses bred exactly for such competitions. They are called Hanoverians and Trakehners.

"My thinking is that if I can show people in this country a superior product, they will buy it. So for over a year I bought up horses in my homeland. Either I or my agent or my older brother went from little farmer to little farmer, purchasing the best stock available.

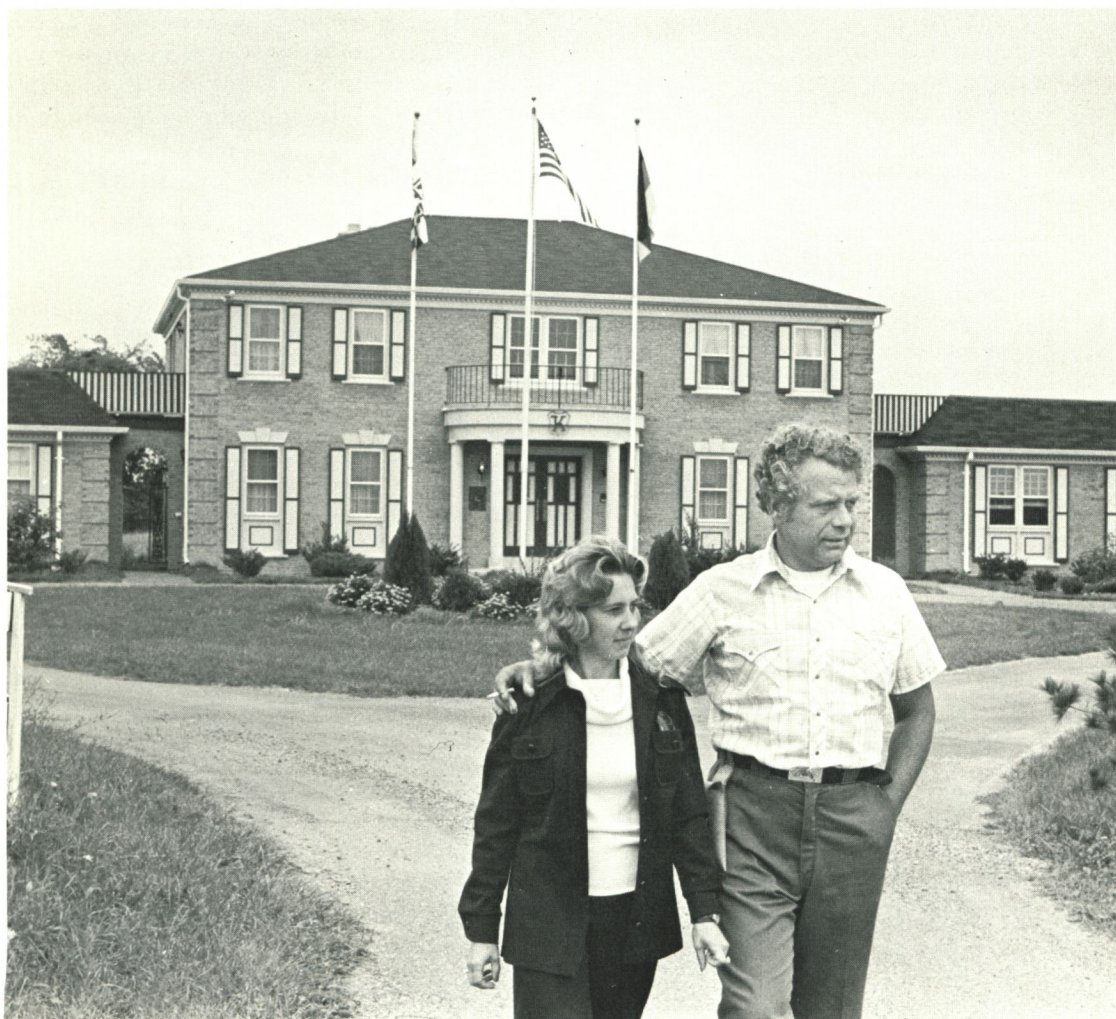

"For Manitu, my 3 and a half-year-old Hanoverian stallion, I paid $65,000.

"He is an exceptional horse. Twice in Germany I personally saw him jump six and a half feet. Well, that's fairly close to the world record (8 feet, one and a quarter inches), and he is still a very young horse.

"In addition to exhibiting him in open jumper classes, I will breed him to a select group of mares for a fee of $750.

"My second stallion is a Trakehner. His stud fee will be $500."

Maryland, American and West German flags fly at Ingrid and Horst Kleinsorg's new home in Poolesville. Opposite, Horst and his son Yogi lead German-breds coveted as dressage and three-phase mounts. Lower right, Yogi takes Hanoverian stallion Manitu over jump.

In addition to the two stallions, Kleinsorg imported 12 Hanoverian broodmares, two Trakehner broodmares, nine Hanoverian geldings and three Trakehner geldings.

"I want to keep both stallions, ten broodmares and maybe three or four geldings," says the Poolesville horse farmer. "The others will all be sold. It is not that I want to cull anything out. It is simply a matter of how much I can afford to retain."

Horst and Ingrid purchased their farm in 1974. It consisted then of 125 acres with no improvements. One year later they moved into their big, sparkling, newly-constructed brick home and began immediately to put up miles of post and rail fencing.

"This," said Kleinsorg, "is my lifelong dream come true. I come from a horse breeding family but because I was the younger son I did not inherit the property. Now I have acquired my own farm in my own new country. It makes me and my wife feel very good."

Perhaps the best proof of Horst's sentiments is that little plot of ground in front of his home on which stand three tall flagpoles. Every day from these poles fly three flags — one for Maryland, one for West Germany and one for the United States. □

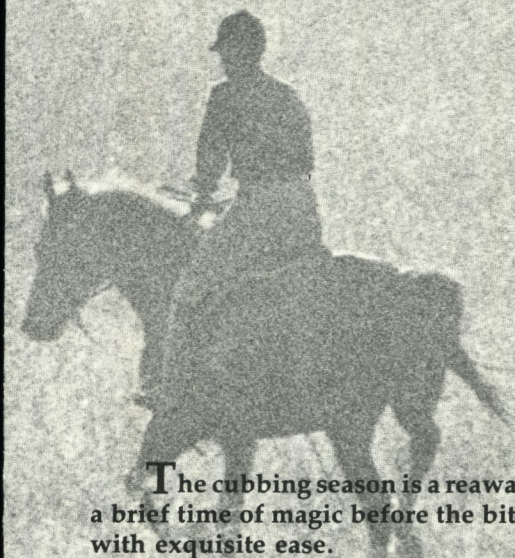

American Hanoverian Registry

The American Hanoverian Registry, founded in 1973, has recently been incorporated in California. Its main purpose is to register and promote the German and American Hanoverian horse for dressage, jumping and combined training. Owners of Hanoverians and Hanoverian crosses may send for registration applications. Plans for future services include a newsletter and brochure, stallion register, sales listings, pedigree services, sponsoring of dressage classes and films. For information, write the American Hanoverian Registry, P. O. Box 6083, Santa Rosa, California 95406.

Early Morning Music

The cubbing season is a reawakening of senses for human and horse, hound and fox. It is a brief time of magic before the biting cold, a time when sight and sound and feeling blend with exquisite ease.

Thick mists cling to the land as the cold air hits the summer-warm ground. Making one's way single file through these low clouds enhances the mystery of primitive mornings of music.

Nostrils spread and veins appear on horses who have been this way before. They know galloping time will come soon . . . but now is the time for listening.

Seen and then unseen in the fields of ready standing corn, the old hounds give voice. They are joined by the young entry's bright and eager chorus. 'Now we understand,' they seem to say.

Summer is over. It is time to enjoy.

The Question: "What does a horse seem to like best after a race or a workout?" He says an Absorbine Liniment brace relaxes the legs and seems to make the horse more chipper.

Take it from these famous trainers. Make sure there's always plenty of Absorbine Liniment in your tack box. And also make sure there's Absorbine Hooflex, to help keep hoofs pliable and less apt to crack.

Pennyacres stories have happy endings.

Consigned by Pennyacres Farm as hip number 58 to the 1976 Eastern Fall Sale, Hold 'Em Joe was selected by owner Larry Knight and his trainer J. V. Tuminelli. The purchase price was $11,000. The Pennyacres-bred colt by L'Aiglon out of Joe's Jeanne, shown here notching his second victory — in a $12,000 allowance at Meadowlands on September 12 — has borne out their good judgement with a record of two wins, two seconds and a third in 7 starts. Already his earnings represent a tidy profit on the initial investment.

Watch for the Pennyacres consignment to the 1978 Maryland Spring Sale of Two-Year-Olds In Training.

Kathy Kusner

By Lucy Acton

Kathy Kusner, flat racing's first licensed female jockey, hasn't ridden a race in over two years.

But don't ask why she quit. She hasn't.

"I'm not ruling racing out of my future," says the 37-year-old equestrienne whose legal battles in Maryland ten years ago led to a court ruling that eventually gave women all over the country the right to ride in races. "When you ride you have to be at the track every day, and that got to be confining after a while. It's possible I could want to go back some day, though."

Miss Kusner is spending her time these days on the least confining work imaginable. She travels all over the world conducting riding clinics and spends her spare time showing, scuba diving, piloting airplanes and just plain sight-seeing.

The clinics, one to seven-day sessions where riders bring their own horses and learn ways to improve their style or cope with problems, offer Kathy a chance to "meet interesting people" in places as diverse as Japan, France and Canada. The more travel involved, the better she likes it, although she limits the number of clinics she will accept to a comfortable number — about 20 a year.

Freely admitting that she has "no money to speak of," Kathy says clinics pay rather well. She spends most of her earnings on her expensive hobbies. "I like scuba diving and sometimes there are clinics in areas that are good for that. I happen to do a lot of clinics in California and some in Hawaii. Some are also in good flying areas; I've had a pilot's license since 1965 but haven't always been able to afford as much flying as I like," she comments.

On every trip Kathy also spends a lot of time with maps and books trying to figure out what spots of interest she might visit. Sometimes she borrows a car for touring, but she can recall spending a good portion of some clinic fees just renting a car to explore the area.

"Most of the people I teach have jobs that don't involve horses," she explains. "Sometimes I tag along with them on the neat stuff they regularly do, and I get around and learn a lot of stuff that way. I really enjoy the people aspect of clinics. Riding is a common meeting ground, but actually I'm quite involved with people."

Still very active with the U. S. Equestrian Team, Kathy, who rode in the 1964, 1968 and 1972 Olympics, competes in a few major shows a year. Right after her recent stopover in Maryland she was off to a show in Sao Paulo, Brazil, an "informal, friendly" competition in which she would be the only North American rider.

Actually, Kathy Kusner in person seems to have changed very little since her race riding days. Her short curly dark hair is frosted now, and her weight is up to 109 pounds, from the 100 or so pounds she weighed then. But she still has that remarkable toothpaste smile that even comes through in her voice. Dressed in a tee shirt and cutoffs she is the ageless picture of fitness and good health.

Home (she more precisely calls it her "base") is still the same room and bath she rented at the Elkridge-Harford Hunt Club near Monkton ten years ago. Decorated like a college dormitory room, with paper ornaments hanging from the ceiling and shag scatter rugs on the floor, its most important function is to house Kathy's large collection of books — history, travel, etc. "This is as much home as anyplace can be. I come back every once in awhile to get new books."

Most of the time Kathy lives as a guest of the people she meets at clinics and shows. The few days she spent in Maryland last month were her first since March.

Propped up on one of her twin beds (her guest had the only chair), Kathy talked willingly about herself, although getting the interview had taken some persistence. "I don't usually give interviews," she remarked without a hint of abrasiveness. "When I was at the tracks it got so I had to fight for my life. If you took time out every day to do interviews you didn't have time for the things you needed to do. I don't care what people write; I never read it. I'm basically a private person and that's the way I like it to be."

Her father was an Air Force officer and mathematics professor and Kathy got used to moving around quite a bit as a child. She struck out on her own at 18, in 1958, and came to work in Maryland for Mikey Smithwick (a noted Hydes, Md., trainer). Although her family was not involved with horses and had "zero money" she had learned to ride as a teenager (the book "School for Young Riders" by Jane Marshall Dillon is based on her early experiences). Kathy has been self-supporting and totally involved with horses since high school graduation.

During her early years in Maryland she lived with Mr. and Mrs. H. Robertson Fenwick, in Glyndon, and rode as whipper-in with the Green Spring Hunt Club. "That was a good learning time," she says. "Bobby (the late Mr. Fenwick) was joint-Master then and I got some good experience; I haven't had the opportunity to do much hunting since."

In 1961, when Kathy joined the U. S. Equestrian Team, she found "lots of neat surprises, new doors, new things." She eventually became the only woman to win the European title, and earned a number of other trophies and awards, all of which she has no desire to discuss. "I really can't even remember that kind of stuff," she says in mock exasperation.

Kathy decided, after five or six years as a top U. S. show rider, that she was going to be the one to challenge racing's sex barrier "because I was really interested in riding. I was not particularly concerned with being the first woman; my main goal was to be as good as I could be."

Audrey Melbourne, the Laurel (Md.) attorney who took on the case, was actually more optimistic at the outset than Kathy was, she recalls. "I knew what was in store even more than she did; she said something to the effect that it wouldn't be very hard." The legal sparring took a full year. In November, 1968, the Circuit Court of Prince Georges county ordered the Maryland Racing Commission to grant Kathy a license.

Given another ten years, believes Kathy, women jockeys will be accepted on the same basis as men. "Nobody will even think about it then," she predicts. "Right now we're still in a transition period."

As for her own experiences: "I knew it was going to be hard for me to get mounts and it was. The best experience for me was learning good stuff from the other jockeys. They were really informative and nice and of course I was asking a million questions all day long every day. Race riding is entirely different from showing; I was interested in learning something new.

"The fun things are all the breakthroughs you have when you are just starting out at something. You're taking big steps at first and I've always been interested in the big step department. Of course I was one of the lightest riders around. I was always reducing, but I didn't suffer with it; I was so excited about what was happening."

Four hundred mounts and 33 winners is the tally so far on Kathy's racing career. She looks back with no regrets or complaints. Didn't people ever make insulting remarks?

"Oh, sure. But that happens to everybody all day long. It's your end that counts. None of that matters if you're doing your best.

"One of the things I'd really like to say, though, is about (trainer) Billy Christmas. He was one of the biggest breaks I ever had. He put me up on my first horse and I ended up riding most of his horses. I was luckier than a lot of other girls to have had someone willing to give me a chance to prove myself. I'm not the only person he's helped, though; he's done the same kind of thing for some people he doesn't even know."

Not a "woman's libber by any means," Kathy considers herself a "human being libber for sure. I want to see everybody have normal opportunities to pursue what they want; a chance to set individual limits."

For her own future, she'd like to do more traveling. "There's still most of the world I haven't seen. And I'd like to read a lot more about it before I go. I'll keep reading and giving clinics and trying to get outside the country as much as possible."

Although she's never been married, Kathy doesn't "rule that out," either. "I'll never settle down. That doesn't appeal to me at all, but settling down doesn't have anything to do with being married. I certainly haven't missed any of the domestic stuff I haven't had. I don't have any squawks about anything; I've had a neat life." □

While working for Mikey Smithwick in the 1960's, Kathy schooled champion jumper Bon Nouvel. The first licensed female flat jockey now travels worldwide conducting riding clinics, showing, scuba diving, piloting airplanes and just plain sightseeing.

What's New in Maryland

John Williams Gets Post

John Williams has been named manager of Kentucky's Spendthrift Farm, according to an announcement from Brownell Combs 2d, the farm's general manager. Williams had bossed Edgar Lucas's Helmore Farm for eight years before resigning that Maryland post in December to accept a Spendthrift position as supervisor of the yearling department.

Life's Illusion Retired

Life's Illusion, champion Maryland-bred jumper in both 1975 and 1976, has been retired. The 6-year-old daughter of *Mystic II will be bred next spring, according to Virginia Van Alen, the mare's owner-breeder.

Winner of five stakes and $96,828, Life's Illusion was unraced as a 2-year-old then went on to win 13 races from 33 starts over a four-year period. She has been trained throughout her career by Paul Fout.

Life's Illusion was named champion of all American steeplechasers in 1975, becoming the first filly or mare ever to earn the title.

Eddie Gaudet's Theory

Likening broodmares to mothers, trainer Eddie Gaudet says that both are too much coddled and over-protected.

The outspoken Maryland trainer made the observation while commenting on his 4-year-old filly Speak of the Devil who is racing at Meadowlands despite being seven months in foal (to Run Fool Run).

Congressman Bob Bauman prepares to ride in the fifth annual Bob Bauman trail ride, held early this month at Fair Hill.

Said Eddie: "Nowadays mares on big breeding farms get babied too much. Just like pregnant women. In the old days it was no big deal when a woman had a baby. They worked hard in the house up until they were ready to give birth. Today they take too much care of the mares and the mothers."

Gaudet, who comes from a family of 14 children, is divorced from Dean Gaudet who is also a trainer.

Summer Cloud Killed

Mrs. E. W. Nichols' 16-year-old broodmare Summer Cloud was killed last month when struck by lightning. The daughter of Summer Tan was the dam of five winners, including stakes-winning Sylvan's Girl, winner of over $125,000. Summer Cloud, who was in foal to Jean-Pierre, was one of eight mares turned out in a field at Worthington Farms. She was the only casualty when lightning hit the area in which they were standing.

Aunty's Shanty Twice Auctioned

The 2-year-old filly Aunty's Shanty who won impressively in her debut at Bowie last month was twice sold in auction sales at Timonium. As a yearling she was bought by Dale K. Thiel from the consignment of Douglas R. Small's Strathmore Stud and as a 2-year-old she was purchased by George Hobbs from Thiel's consignment.

Making the first start of her career last month, Aunty's Shanty confronted Maryland-bred maidens in a non-claiming six-furlong race. She registered by six lengths and posted a $55 mutuel. The bay filly is by Dead Ahead out of Casey's Clarice by Ambehaving. She is trained by Hyman Ravich and is owned by Hobbs.

Bred by Nathan L. Cohen, son of one of Pimlico's two principal owners, the Dead Ahead filly was part of a package deal made in May, 1976, by Cohen with Small, his former trainer. Small consigned the filly to the Eastern Fall Yearling Sales where she was purchased by Thiel for $5,000. Thiel, who bought horses from that sale in partnership with Charles V. B. Cushman, Jr., then sent the filly to South Carolina where she was prepared for Maryland's Two-Year-Olds in Training Sale.

Returned to Timonium in May for that auction, Aunty's Shanty was bought by Hobbs on a bid of $5,500. Although Aunty's Shanty has made only one start, she has had four owners: Cohen, Small, Thiel and Hobbs.

Colonial Cup November 26

Thanksgiving weekend will once again be the date for the Colonial Cup International Steeplechase, with the running of this year's 8th annual race scheduled for Saturday afternoon, November 26.

"Everyone seems to favor Thanksgiving weekend as the best time for the Colonial Cup," said race director Dale Thiel. "It will be the last major fall sporting event of the year in South Carolina. We anticipate another record crowd."

He added that the purse will again be $100,000 — the largest prize money in the United States and the third largest in the world for steeplechase racing. An international field of between 15 and 20 horses is expected to compete. Thiel noted that invitations have been sent to owners in England, Ireland, France, New Zealand, and Norway as well as to owners in the United States and Canada.

"Five or six foreign horses have been bought during the past year by Americans so that they can be entered in the Colonial Cup," Thiel said. "Each year the race becomes more prestigious, the crown more coveted, and the competition keener."

Last year's winner, Grand Canyon, is expected to defend his crown. This is truly an international entry, Thiel added, and explained that the horse was co-owned by a New Zealander and an Australian, trained by an Englishman, and ridden by an Irishman in the 1976 Colonial Cup.

Ticket prices will remain the same with a $3 general admission charge per person. Special parking plans will range from $15 to $40. Box seats in the grandstand also will be available.

Orders may be placed through the Colonial Cup Ticket Office, Springdale Course, Camden, S. C. 29020, phone 803-432-6513.

Charles Town's Honor Roll

Charles Town will soon create its own Hall of Fame for jockeys who competed at the five-furlong West Virginia track.

A five-man committee has been named to select six candidates for the inaugural two-member induction. Certain to be a winner first time out is Bill Hartack, a four-time national riding champion. In addition to Hartack, the committee has nominated Vince Bracciale, Jr., Jesse Davidson, Sam Palumbo, Carson Kirk and Patsy Grant.

The two inductees (one modern and one old-time) will be elected by the racing public. Voting will take place at Charles Town from October 1 to 15. The committee which selected the candidates consists of Chick Lang, B. Frank Christmas, Joseph B. Kelly, Norman Corbin and Don Rentch.

Stallion News For 1978

John M. Curley, owner of Rolling Mill Farm, has decided to discontinue the standing of stallions at his Baltimore county farm because of his own recent illness. Accordingly, North Flight has been moved to Merryland Farm, and Road At Sea has been transferred to Stymie Manor. No changes are reported in stud fees or ownership of the two horses.

Bold Favorite, a son of Bold Ruler, has had his stud fee drastically reduced, according to Dr. Robert A. Leonard, manager of Glade Valley Farms. The syndicate-owned winner of $248,000 will stand the 1978 season for a live foal fee of $1,500. Said Dr. Leonard: "Bold Favorite has sired many winners in addition to three stakes-placed fillies. But we want to increase the number of mares bred to him, and the best way to do that is to cut the stud fee."

Buck Hill, a New York allowance-winning son of champion Buckpasser and the Hill Prince mare Wise Nurse, is now being syndicated to stand the 1978 season at Murmur Farm in Aberdeen. His stakes-winning dam also produced added-money winners Sydneys Nurse and Resident Nurse in addition to his stakes-placed full brother Buck the System. Buck Hill will stand for $1,000 live foal.

What a Rogue, who entered stud in 1976 at Merryland Farm, will move to Derby Hill Farm in Mt. Airy for the 1978 season. The son of leading sire What a Pleasure stands for $1,000 live foal, the property of L. Ray McMahan and George Hutchens.

Caucasus

Caucasus, a major stakes winner in Ireland and California, has been purchased by a syndicate for stud duty at E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm in Chesapeake City.

Winner of $409,000, the 5-year-old bay is by Nijinsky II out of Quill who is by *Princequillo. Caucasus was a winner of the Irish St. Leger, Sunset Handicap, Manhattan Handicap, South Bay Handicap, Arcadia Handicap and San Luis Rey Stakes.

Joe Hickey, assistant to Windfields' Joe Thomas, stated that the horse will stand for a live foal fee of $15,000.

Bred by Cragwood Estates, Caucasus raced in the colors of the Cardiff Stock Farm. His trainer was Charles Whittingham.

His dam, Quill, earned $382,000 and was America's champion 2-year-old filly in 1958. In addition to Caucasus she has produced the excellent runner One For All, a stakes winner of $349,000.

Nijinsky II, a foal of 1967, is by Northern Dancer out of Flaming Page by Bull Page. Although bred by Mr. Taylor, Nijinsky raced for the late Charles Engelhard, owner of the Cragwood racing stable.

Shares in Caucasus are being sold at $80,000, payable over a three-year period. The first payment of $40,000 is due upon signing of the contract. The remaining $40,000 is to be paid in two equal installments on an annual basis.

The syndicate consists of 36 shares and "is virtually completed," according to Hickey.

"It is too early to say," Hickey continued, "as to how many outside mares will be bred. That will depend largely on the shareholders' use of the shares they purchase."

Hickey also confirmed reports that three stallions now at Windfields will go to other farms prior to the 1978 season. He said full details will be revealed next month.

He is survived by his wife who is also his cousin, a daughter, Mrs. William Fritz of Lutherville, a son, Daniel Baker of Ruxton, and five grandchildren.

Mrs. William Coxe Wright

Mrs. William Coxe Wright, owner of a Pennsylvania-based stable which raced frequently in Maryland, died early this month at age 65. Mrs. Wright, whose maiden name was Charlotte K. Dorrance, was daughter of a president of the Campbell Soup Company. Her best horse was probably Delay who won Bowie's John B. Campbell Handicap as a 5-year-old and three times won Laurel's Congressional Handicap.

In addition to her flat stable, Mrs. Wright maintained a stable of jumpers which she campaigned at hunt meetings. Her best 'chasers were *Castlebar II, *Feroz II and Fortissimo, all winners at the Fair Hill meeting.

Clarence W. Miles

Clarence W. Miles died in early October following an illness of several months. The 80-year-old attorney had headed a committee in 1967 which made recommendations for the reorganization of the Maryland racing industry.

Known as the Miles Plan, the report was widely heralded as being innovative and of great possible aid to the industry. But it failed to achieve political support and was never activated. It remains, however, a basis for future consideration and study.

The so-called Miles Plan was the product of the Maryland Gambling Study Commission of which Mr. Miles was chairman.

Henry F. Bowyer

Henry F. Bowyer, well-known trainer of the Maryland circuit, was killed in a house fire early this month. Upon arriving at the scene in Beltsville (Md.), firemen found a two-story brick structure engulfed in flames. The 62-year-old horseman is survived by a daughter, Eleanor Bandler, two sisters and a brother.

Obituaries

Joseph Dill Baker

Joseph Dill Baker, longtime foxhunting enthusiast, died last month at the age of 83 at his Manor Hill Farm in Monkton. A member of the Elkridge-Harford field until he was well into his 70's, Mr. Baker was regularly accompanied by his wife, Susan Ellen Baker, his children and grandchildren for a morning's sport. Forced to give up hunting by illness, Mr. Baker nonetheless encouraged his wife to continue. Last season, when Mrs. Baker needed a new horse, he became totally involved in the search to provide a safe and suitable mount for his wife. "I have said that it's time to stop," Mrs. Baker said at that time, "but Joe says, 'Go on, have another season.'"

Mr. Baker retired in 1954 from a family business, the Standard Lime and Stone Company, of which he had been vice-president, treasurer and director. He was also a member of several boards including the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Performing as 17-10 favorite in the first division of Keystone's Patriot Stakes on September 1, Tiny Monk led the entire seven-furlong distance to register by a nose over Spirit Level. Both carried top weight of 122 pounds — seven more than assigned third-place finisher Dixie Chief. Tiny Monk's performance was especially courageous in view of the fact that he was never able to open a sizable lead but retained a margin of less than a half-length from flagfall to finish. His time of 1:22 4/5 was one-fifth faster than required by Pruneplum, winner of the second division.

Risked once in a claiming race ($18,000) as a 2-year-old, Tiny Monk has improved with age. Although bred by his owner, Tiny Monk is actually the result of Brig. Gen. James P. S. Devereux's planning. It was General Devereux who mated Tiny Ripple to Red Monk, and then sold the mare to Mrs. John A. Wallace. Since a horse's breeder is defined as the owner of the dam at time of foaling, it is Mrs. Wallace who is credited with breeding the chestnut sprinter.

Red Monk, also a chestnut, was one of the most courageous horses to race in Maryland during the last ten years. Because of a knee injury which rendered him a partial cripple throughout his entire career, Red Monk raced only seven times. He won six of those starts and finished third in the only race in which he was defeated. He started only once in a stakes race (Bowie's Southern Maryland Handicap) and won it in time four-fifths of a second slower than the 1:09 1/5 track record. Owned and bred by Mr. and Mrs. C. Oliver Goldsmith, Red Monk stands at their Longwood Farm for a live foal fee of $1,000. He is by Rambunctious out of Sun Rondeau by Bull Brier. Sun Rondeau, herself a cheap race mare, has produced three stakes winners, the others being Leematt ($212,895) and Uncle Willie M. ($42,011).

Under The Table, a son of Round Table, stood in Maryland at Kennersley Stud from 1970 through 1975 as the property of Oakwood Stable. In 1976 he was moved to Harry Fried's Clermont Farm near Germantown, New York. Playin' Footsie is the first stakes winner sired by Under The Table and the first produced by her dam,

(through Sept. 10)

Purchased for $25,000 in 1966 at the dispersal sale of William duPont Jr.'s horse holdings held in Timonium's sales pavilion, Ambernash has proved an outstanding bargain. By champion Nashua out of champion Parlo, Ambernash made only three starts. He won his first two as a 3-year-old in Mr. duPont's colors then shattered a sesamoid in the Withers Stakes. His purchasers (a small syndicate headed by Richard S. Reynolds Jr.) had no thought of racing their $25,000 4-year-old. He was retired immediately to stud for a live foal fee of $500.

Ambernash hasn't been as successful at stud as his sire or his two grandsires, but, on the other hand, he wasn't expected to achieve their fame. He has sired nine stakes winners from a fairly ordinary lot of mates and his stud fee peaked at $3,500 in 1973 and 1974. Standing now at Larking Hill Farm, the 15-year-old horse commands a $2,000 live foal fee. In 1973 and 1974 Ambernash resided at Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Woodstock Farm. It was there that Pearl Necklace was foaled. Her owner-breeder, Reginald Webster, normally boards his mares in Kentucky but kept Pearl Necklace's dam in Maryland because he wanted a foal by Ambernash. Winner last year of the Tempted Stakes, Pearl Necklace defeated both Sensational and Road Princess when she won the rich Gazelle Handicap (under 111 pounds compared to 120 for Sensational and 118 for Road Princess) last month. Mr. Webster, who is chairman of five corporation boards, had earlier bred stakes winners Quill (champion, 1963), Capelet, Quick Touch, Amberoid, Count Amber, Viscount and Gay Style.

Another Jane, the dam of Pearl Necklace, failed to earn a dollar in three starts. Prior to Pearl Necklace she foaled Embraceable (winner of one race) and Reunite (winner of one race in France). Pearl Necklace's second dam is Countess Jane, a stakes-winner of $31,487.

Bill's Nurse, who earned nothing in three starts.

Bred by Seymour Cohn, Playin' Footsie was a nice sort of 2-year-old. She finished third in Bowie's Kindergarten Stakes and won four races for a juvenile season of $22,965. But as a 3-year-old she won only once in 26 starts and was repeatedly risked in claiming races. Mr. Cohn lost her for $16,000 to Audley Farm. She changed hands several times after leaving the Cohn stable, finally winding up in the barn of Ben Erickson. In her first start for Erickson (July 11) she finished third in allowance company.

Improving steadily as the summer wore on, Playin' Footsie moved up to stakes competition at Monmouth where she finished second in the Margate Handicap. Despite that good effort on the grass, Playin' Footsie was given no chance by the betting public in the $40,000 Red Bank Handicap. She performed at odds of 43-1 (longest priced horse in the 10-mare lineup) and proceeded to win by a neck from Desiree. Artfully was another head back in third position.

There aren't many trainers operating today with a stable comprised entirely of horses which they themselves bred, but there are a few — and those trainers are, for the most part, excellent horsemen. In this group is 80-year-old B. Frank Christmas. He not only bred Sailingon, he also bred the mare's dam and the sire of the dam. Additionally, he owns Sailingon's sire and was the owner of Sailingon's second dam. In short, there is nothing about Sailingon that isn't a Christmas production.

Sailington was an easy winner of Timonium's All Maryland Handicap. She carried 116 pounds and was installed a slight favorite at 21 to 10. Behind her came Le Boudeur (110) and Presto Presto (115). High weight of the race was fourth-place finisher Splitting Headache at 122. Much was made of the fact that Sailington was making her first start in six weeks because of an injury. But her owner-trainer-breeder pooh-poohed his accomplishment. "Once," he said, "I brought a horse out at Pimlico after a two-year rest and won the Battleship Steeplechase Handicap with him in his first start. Six weeks? Any trainer ought to be able to handle that."

A stakes winner in each of her last four seasons, Sailingon has consistently ranked among the best of Maryland's fillies and mares. She is as honest as they come, carries weight and loves a distance. Her family (i.e. her bottom line) traces to Pilate and Knights Gal, both owned by Abram S. Hewitt. B. F. maintains that no one knows more about horse breeding than Mr. Hewitt. And it was from Hewitt that Christmas bought Saracen Miss more than 30 years ago.

Installed odds-on favorite in the Chesapeake Handicap, Pistol White won by a nose from Tiny Monk in the mile and a sixteenth Maryland-bred race. The 5-year-old gelding carried top weight of 120 pounds (3-year-old Tiny Monk was assigned 113) and succeeded in overtaking his younger rival right on the wire. Take The Pledge (111) was third, 13 lengths behind the first two.

Unraced at 2 and 3 because of a fractured cannon bone plus other ailments, Pistol White last year won Keystone's Quaker Handicap in addition to five other races. This year he placed in four stakes before winning the Chesapeake Handicap.

Bred and owned by John B. Merryman, Pistol White is out of Love Bunowitz, a mare which Merryman bought in 1968 at the Maryland Fall Sales for $3,200. The mare died from colic in 1975 soon after foaling a Bold Monarch filly. Her earlier foals include What A Fling (by What a Pleasure) who earned over $50,000 and Weehawken (by Duel), winner of over $48,000.

Pistol White (named for veteran trainer Charles R. White) is the first stakes winner trained by Edwin Merryman, older son of the owner-breeder. Edwin's older sister, Katy Voss, was the trainer of Twixt (winner of $619,000) who was also bred by Mr. and Mrs. Merryman. Although Twixt raced in the name of Mrs. John Franklin, she was 50 per cent owned by the Merrymans.

Gaining her fourth stakes victory of the year, What A Summer held on doggedly to a narrow lead throughout the entire running of the 24th renewal of the one-mile Maskette

Handicap in which she carried top weight of 126 pounds. At the finish she had a head margin over Crab Grass (114). The latter was a neck in front of Harvest Girl (111). What A Summer, bred by the late Milton Polinger, was odds-on favorite in the Belmont Park race.

Purchased by Mrs. Bertram R. Firestone for $275,000 at a Hialeah auction in January, the gray daughter of What Luck has now earned $167,917 for her new owner. She has been trained by LeRoy Jolley since January. Previously, she was trained by Buddy Delp.

Mr. Polinger, a member of the Maryland Racing Commission, died last December following heart surgery. He had bought What A Summer's dam, Summer Classic, for $5,700 at the Keeneland Fall Sales in 1971. Raced only twice, Summer Classic never placed. Her first four foals were bred by Mike Ford, the man who won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness with Kauai King in 1966. None of the four Ford-breds showed any particular ability, their earnings ranging from a high of $35,000 (Inspector Clouseau) to a low of $75 (Royal Classic). Bred to Mr. Polinger's home stallion What Luck in 1972, she produced this outstanding runner the following spring. Barren for 1974, Summer Classic is represented this year by a 2-year-old gelding sired by Wise Exchange. Owned by Mrs. Helen Polinger, the gelding (named Good Summer) has failed to place in one start in New York.

Originally carded at a mile and three-eighths on the turf, the Manhattan Handicap was moved to the dirt track because of rain. As a consequence, there were six scratches from Gentle King's division of the split stake which was run at a mile and a half. Sent to the front at the start by Steve Cauthen, Gentle King never relinquished that advantage while winning by three-quarters of a length from Double Quill. Keep The Promise finished third, a nose behind the runner-up. Gentle King carried 111 pounds and performed as even-money favorite.

Bred by the late Milton Polinger, Gentle King is by the hot Bold Ruler stallion What Luck. Injuries prevented Gentle King from making more than three starts last year but he has come back strong this season with five wins out of 13 races.

Gentle King is the first stakes winner produced by his dam, Gentle Ruler, although two of her earlier foals (Lancastrian and Carry Ruler) placed in stakes. Gentle King's second dam is Lithe, winner of over $187,000. Lithe is also the dam of stakes-winning Supple ($79,000).

Quadratic is a partnership colt, being owned equally by August Belmont and James P. Ryan. He races in Belmont's name but was bred by Ryan. Foaled at Mr. Ryan's Ryehill Farm in Mount Airy, Quadratic is out of a mare which Ryan bought at the 1972 Keeneland Fall Sales for $36,000. She was at that time carrying a foal by Creme dela Creme.

Mr. Belmont is himself a newcomer to racing as an owner, but his grandfather (who bore the same name) bred Man o'War and his great grandfather was the man for whom Belmont Park was named. As a member of the board of directors of Ryland Homes (of which Ryan is the founder and president), Belmont has been inculcated with racing propaganda. So it was that on a visit to Ryan's Maryland farm last year Belmont was shown the yearlings. Ryan remembers the visit something like this: "He asked me what I thought I'd get if I sold this one particular colt at auction. I gave him a price. Then he said, 'Well, how about if I give you half that amount and we form a partnership on him?' My response was, 'Don't you want to see some of the others? Look around a little more?' He said, 'No, this is the colt I want to go partners on.' " The colt was Quadratic.

In the Cowdin, Quadratic won with speed in reserve. He registered by two lengths over Darby Creek Road. The latter finished a nose in front of Roman Prince. Because of the track's sloppy condition, only five horses started. Quadratic at 21 to 10 was second choice to 19 to 10 Darby Creek Road.

Maryland Futurity To Be Run In November

The 47th running of the Maryland Futurity will be held at Laurel on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 24. The one-mile stakes race for Maryland-bred 2-year-olds will have an approximate purse of $60,000.

The Maryland Futurity is restricted to offspring of stallions which stood in Maryland in 1974 and were nominated for the race last January at a fee of $100 per stallion. That nomination automatically made all of those 64 stallions' Maryland-bred 2-year-olds eligible for the race. To continue eligibility, a payment of $25 for each 2-year-old was required by April 1 (or missing that deadline, a late fee of $75 by June 1).

There are 216 2-year-olds eligible for this year's race. Payments remaining are $500 to pass the entry box and $250 to start, but each horse must, of course, also be registered as a Maryland-bred.

The names of the eligible horses follow:

Ace-O-Cratic, Alma's Lass, Alra, Ambitious Land, Am Impressive, Another Fling, At The Crease.

Racing Laboratory Chemists Test For Drug Use

By Missy Warfield

A whirl of high-powered fans and an eerie glow from bright lights betray the fact that something is going on in the bowels of Laurel's grandstand. And indeed, below the tumult of the crowd, in a maze of corridors, bricked-up cul-de-sacs and massive heating machinery exists the Maryland Racing Commission's new laboratory.

This permanent laboratory is reputed to be one of the best in the country and only recently became the proud possessor of a most sophisticated piece of machinery, the Finnigan 3200 gas chromatograph and mass spectrometer.

"There are only about six of these used in racing labs in the country," said chief chemist Thomas Lomangino, caressing the monster which takes up a room of its own. "This machine cost $113,000 and can test for innumerable drugs at once. All we do is put in a disc and off she goes."

The use of the Finnigan is the final test in a series of tests which are done on urine specimens — and whatever the preliminary tests have shown, the Finnigan is the clincher. By breaking a sample first into compounds, and then knocking the compound into elements, which are printed out in both written and graph form, the forbidden drugs are irrevocably identified.

"Ten years ago, I wouldn't have talked to you about anything we do," said Lomangino. "Then everything we did depended on crystal tests, color tests and ultraviolet spectrophotometry. Growing crystals for every sample took a long time. Even then the bulk of proof was not great. But today, with machines such as the Finnigan, we can do hundreds of corroborating tests and identify drugs accurately and rapidly.

"Sometimes, even too accurately," he laughed. "There can be drawbacks. With our new sophisticated machines we are able to find minute quantities of drugs, down to a trillionth of a gram. But I don't want to know what the horse had two weeks ago. I want to know what he had the day he raced!"

Thomas Lomangino, chief chemist for the Maryland Racing Commission, works in new facility under Laurel grandstand.

Assistant Paul Schneider uses the Finnigan, a $113,000 machine which reveals the chemical content of urine samples.

Laboratory continued

Even so, Lomangino was wary of explaining the entire process from start to finish of the testing done with a urine sample.

"There are guys who would love to know our techniques and figure out ways to circumvent them," he said. "It is easier to say that the methods we use here are accepted by the Association of Official Racing Chemists."

He continued wryly, "And after all, the methodology is too intricate. The people who own horses won't understand. And the people who do understand don't own horses . . . they're too smart."

Nonetheless, a layperson's idea of what happens in the Laurel lab was pieced together by this reporter and, taking up the challenge that horse owners aren't smart enough to understand, here is the general idea.

At 8 a.m. when Lomangino and his assistant open the anteroom door, they take a locked metal box out of a refrigerator and open the heavy door to the sparkling lab.

Then, with his key (there are only two keys), Lomangino unlocks the box to reveal the 19 samples taken, witnessed and sealed the day before at the track. "The first thing we do is put lab numbers from 1 to 19 on the samples. This just makes it easier for us than using 599 or the long numbers from the track. Then we take 100 cc's at a time and begin to purify each specimen to obtain potential forbidden substances.

"The purity of the sample you are working with depends on the expertise of the man running the lab," says Lomangino. "And expertise and experience play a part the whole way through.

"To us, every one of these samples is an unknown."

A series of tests is run on every single sample, beginning with the Marquis and Vitali color tests.

"Each drug has its own particular color," explained Lomangino. "With the Marquis test, the opiates always turn purple and the amphetamines change in succession from yellow to pink to peat mahogany and finally end up green."

The next test is done with an ultraviolet spectrophotometer. It is basically a screening device that shows the absorption or nonabsorption of ultraviolet light, and which prints this reaction on paper in a graph. Since every single chemical has an exact profile, a known degree of absorbing or not absorbing ultraviolet light, what the graph shows is a picture of the chemical as precise as a photograph of a person.

The Finnigan series is next, with the urine sample extract being injected with a hypodermic needle into the testing tube on the machine. Through a complicated process, the extract is separated into compounds and one by one, one after another, the compounds are broken into characteristic fragments similar to a fingerprint. This is the "mass spectrum," and the compounds are concurrently printed out in a graph.

When procaine was found to be in one sample, the Finnigan took 7.83 minutes to draw the graph of it. That is how complicated the molecules of drugs are . . . and also what can identify them without doubt.

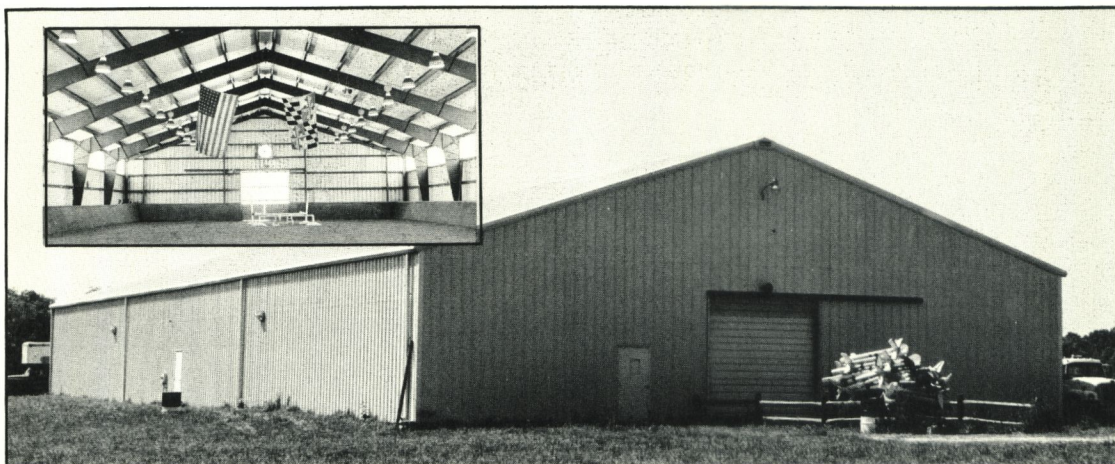

The last step which the Finnigan does is to separate the compounds into elements and print out how much of what element is in the compound . . . by molecular weight. This is a final fingerprint of any drug — as procaine, for instance, would have an undeviating molecular weight.

"There are no exceptions to any of these tests," says Lomangino. "And there are no problems if all the samples are negative. If the racing commission doesn't hear from me, they know everything is all right."

"But if I find a positive, they do hear from me. And then more steps are taken. We run the entire series of tests again with a fresh sample from the same specimen. It might take up to 10 hours, and then we also grow crystals for more proof."

"You go to all this trouble because you are messing with a man's life."

A positive sample demands full substantiation — one which can be, and often is, used as evidence in court. And another part of Lomangino's job is having to testify to his findings in trials or hearings.

Under strict control of the racing commission, and classified as an "analytical lab" by the Maryland Division of Drug Control, the Laurel lab plays a critical part in keeping racing honest.

And Lomangino, with his assistant Paul Schneider, runs a tight ship.

The rows of bottles and the array of equipment are meticulously maintained. It was harder to keep a proper environment several years ago. "We are certainly glad to have this good lab," said Lomangino. "We used to have a mobile lab in a trailer, and we would go from track to track. It was very hard to work with little space, and we could barely find enough room to keep our supplies. We used a garage as a store room.

Now with this new lab (built in the last two years), we have everything right here — and our Finnigan, too."

Lomangino, who is a charter member of the Association of Official Racing Chemists, has spent many years testing urine specimens for drugs. Born and raised in New York city's suburbs, where his father ran an ice business, Lomangino studied chemistry at Allegheny College and then did graduate work in anatomy and physiology at the University of Chicago.

"In 1935 while I was in graduate school, the racetrack testing business started. It was pure accident that I got into the field. I was doing research work on sleep with Dr. Oester at the University of Chicago and he was asked to do some testing for the Illinois Racing Board. I began to help him and before long was totally involved in running a private lab that did testing for several states. When the state decided to take over the testing in 1965, I was thinking of retiring. I wanted my children to get to know their family — all my cousins who lived in New York. A friend (Dr. John A. Herculson) who was running the Maryland lab at that time called and asked me to come here. And I did."

Lomangino lives in Laurel where his wife, Rose, is a legal secretary for the law firm of Hogan and Hartson. They have four grown children, three girls and a boy, Tom Jr., who works part-time at the Laurel lab. He is studying biology at Bowie State College.

Paul Schneider, the assistant chemist in the lab, recently received a Masters degree in organic chemistry from the University of Maryland. He lives in Mt. Airy and commutes to Laurel, and one of his main jobs is operating the Finnigan.

From early morning to late afternoon, there is bustle in the Laurel lab as the two chemists go about their work. And when the testing is over, the bottles must be prepared to go back to the tracks.

"We wash them ourselves," says Lomangino. "And we don't sterilize them. We soap them down, rinse them, run them through a good oxydizing agent and then rinse them with fresh water and then with still water.

"We don't care about microbes. We are just concerned about chemicals." □

PONY SENTENCED TO HARD LABOR

Defenders of Animal Rights, Inc. (DAR), wants to help the huckster ponies seen hauling heavy wagons throughout Baltimore. Many of these animals have been hit by cars, and others are worked until they literally drop. A former policeman told us he found one abandoned in an alley suffering from harness sores and pneumonia. It had to be destroyed.

City ordinance 895 prohibits all stables within 300 feet of any residence. However, the law does not provide for any city agency to enforce it, nor does it stipulate any penalty for violators.

Since DAR does not yet have a shelter, we are greatly hampered in our efforts for all horses. Maryland law requires a seized animal be held for 20 days, and this could drag on for months if a court case is involved. Please help us to obtain the land/funds needed to build a shelter so DAR will be in a position to stop needless horse abuse.

NOTE:

You are cordially invited to attend the Fall meeting of Defenders of Animal Rights, Inc. It will be held on Wednesday, November 2, 1977, at 8 p.m. in the Towson United Methodist Church located on Hampton Lane at Dulaney Valley Road (directly off Baltimore beltway exit 27N). Dr. John Brooks, DVM, will talk about "First Aid for Your Pet."

WHAT YOU CAN DO

1. Never sell any horse or pony without knowing the new owner can provide the necessary time, money, and care for such an animal.
2. Schedule a free DAR lecture/film on responsible pet ownership. Call our Mrs. Dersch at 377-4412.
3. Do you own a farm? DAR desperately needs 10 acres of land for an animal shelter so we can investigate and prosecute cruelty to dogs, cats, horses, and other animals. We estimate the total cost of this facility to be $300,000.
4. Help save animals not as fortunate as your beautiful horses. Please send a donation to DAR. You will receive a year's subscription to our newsletter.

All donations are TAX-DEDUCTIBLE for income and estate tax purposes. DAR is a non-profit volunteer organization registered with the Maryland Secretary of State.

Optimum Weaning Time Nonexistent

By Dr. J. P. McCall,
John Stott, Larry Neucomb

The optimum weaning age of a foal has traditionally been six months of age.

This tradition was established before information about mare's milk production and the inherent growth potential of the foal was available.

Due to economic considerations, young horses are now being forced to race or perform in other capacities prior to two years of life. Since it is likely that horse owners will continue early training and competition, it seems logical to accelerate the maturation of the young horse to coincide more nearly with performance demands.

Researchers at the University of Maryland have conducted studies to determine the optimum weaning age and improved diets for early maturation.

The importance of a good plane of nutrition for very young animals to their subsequent growth is well established. The first source of nutrients is mother's milk. It is therefore important to insure that the dam provides plenty of good quality milk for her new foal.

In an effort to determine if the mare's dietary nutrients affect her milk production, the following study was conducted. Two groups of mares were fed a ration containing 13.5 per cent protein for 105 days, starting at 45 days before foaling. One group received two pounds of a commercial milk replacer in its daily ration. At 60 days after foaling this group's milk was analyzed for protein, fat and solids content.

No effect on the quality of mare's milk was found due to the addition of milk replacer.

Approximately eight weeks after foaling, the mare's milk production starts to decrease while her foal's requirement for nutrients continues to increase. (See graph.) Early weaning may be a needed procedure to allow for the consumption of a diet with greater nutrient density, in both quantity and quality, than would otherwise be possible, thus providing for a more rapid growth and earlier maturation.

To determine the effect of weaning age on subsequent growth, foals were divided into two groups. One group was weaned at two months and the other group at five months of age. Weekly measurements of weight and withers height were taken, and a weight-to-height ratio determined. Also, weekly feed consumption was recorded, and feed efficiency calculated. Once monthly, an ultrasonic scanner was used to determine loin eye area and backfat thickness. All parameters were analyzed when the horses were one year of age.

While there was some individual variation at various ages, there was no overall difference between the two groups.

The selection of a protein source in the rations of horses is often based on fads and information unrelated to the nutritional requirements of the horse. The addition of milk replacer as a protein supplement to the grain ration of the young horse may increase rate of growth and the efficiency of feed conversion due to the improved protein quality. To determine the effect of protein source on the growth of young horses, foals were divided into two groups.

One group was fed grain with soybean meal as the only protein supplement. The other group's feed contained 20 per cent milk replacer. The ration for both groups contained 18.5 per cent protein. Weekly weight-to-height ratios and feed efficiency were determined, as well as monthly measurements of backfat thickness and loin eye area.

At one year of age, analysis showed no difference between the two groups.

In conclusion, there seems to be no difference in maturation in foals weaned at two months or five months of age. There also appears to be no difference in mare's milk or foal growth due to the dietary protein sources tested.

It is only important to insure that the horse receive a feed of sufficient quantity and quality to meet its nutritional requirements. To insure sufficient quantity of nutrients all foals were given creep feed starting at one month of age. □

Kentucky, long the world's leader in the production of superior race horses, has created a 1,000-acre horse park just outside of Lexington which offers superb facilities for all types of non-wagering horse competitions.

Although official opening of the $26,953,750 horse park won't take place until next July, previews are already being staged at this remarkable facility constructed by the state.

One such competition took place last month (September 15-18) when junior riders rehearsal for next year's World Championships.

"The park's only flaw is a lack of hills. Otherwise, it is hard to imagine a more perfect setting for a 3-day event.

"Commenting on the park's terrain, course designer Roger Haller said: 'I've tried to compensate for the basically easy lay of the land by building a course that poses thinking problems for the riders.'

"Favorable reactions were received from coaches and riders alike. The consensus was from all over North America gathered for a three-day event. Maryland was represented by Hilary Thompson, of Independence Farm, Monkton, and Grant Schneidman, of Potomac.

Sally O'Connor, a regular correspondent for this publication, was involved in the 4th annual North American Junior Team Championships both as an official and a writer.

Excerpts from her report follow:

"Eventing is relatively new to Kentucky, but the organizers spared no effort to insure a first-class 3-day event. Designated as the site of the all-important World Championships to be held in September of next year, Kentucky Horse Park offers the ideal site to the event enthusiast.

"One thousand acres of gently rolling bluegrass are bordered by miles of wood fencing with a permanent steeplechase course in the middle. Intended to be a showplace for horsemen of all persuasions, the Horse Park has incomparable facilities for horse activities of all kinds.

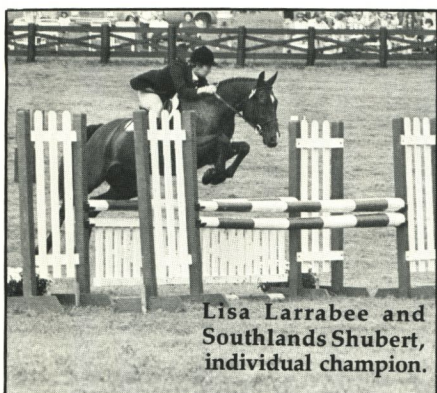

"The North American Junior Team Championships were planned as a full scale dress that the course was big, straightforward, 'a real galloping course.'

"As to communications and the reporting of results — well, I had never seen anything to equal the Kentucky production. In addition to the regular park police, they had U. S. marines manning field telephones to report progress and problems on the cross-country phase of it.

"The marines reported in to a central control complex at which point was located an electronic scoreboard. The board had flashing lights (to show the progress of the rider on course) and digital readouts of faults as they were accumulated. The announcer (situated in a glass-enclosed soundproof booth) kept everyone advised as to what the scoreboard was saying. To me, it all seemed like a miracle of modern ingenuity."

Mrs. O'Connor concluded her report by stating that the Middle Atlantic Area II team (which in addition to the two Marylanders included Greg McIntosh of Newark, Del., and Tom Glascok, of Marshall, Va.) wound up second in the final standings, bowing to North Atlantic States Area I. □

MHSA Finals

The Maryland Horse Shows Association held an Equitation Day on September 25 at Cool Meadows Horse Center in Jarrettsville.

Featured event of the nine classes was the MHSA Hunter Seat finals. Fifteen-year-old Lindsay Ann Evans was declared the winner following the three phases of competition and an extra rideoff.

The finals is scored on a percentage basis of written 20%, jumping 40% and riding on the flat 40%. Miss Evans won the jumping and flat riding but was unplaced in the written test. Linda Lee Piersol was in a six-way tie for first in the written, placed fifth over the fences and second on the flat. Since both had the same amount of points a rideoff was called for by the judge, Roger Young of Pittsford, N.Y.

The course, designed by Edna Lytle, was shortened for the rideoff, adding more difficult turns. Lindsay Ann emerged victorious and was crowned the 1977 MHSA Hunter Seat equitation champion.

Miss Evans has been a pupil of Bobbie and Jack Stedding for the past ten years. She comes from a family of riders. Her older sister, Kim, showed on the Eastern circuit for many years and her brother, Scott is now a professional in Columbia. All three were trained at the Steddings' Jabolin Farm in Sparks.

Miss Piersol, who is also a student of the Steddingses, won the Gittings horsemanship finals, for riders who had won such a class at an MHSA show during the past season.

During the earlier part of the day classes for younger riders were held on the flat and over fences. Then the first and second place winners were called back for a championship event. Leslie Millner was declared champion, with Jeanne Ludlam reserve.

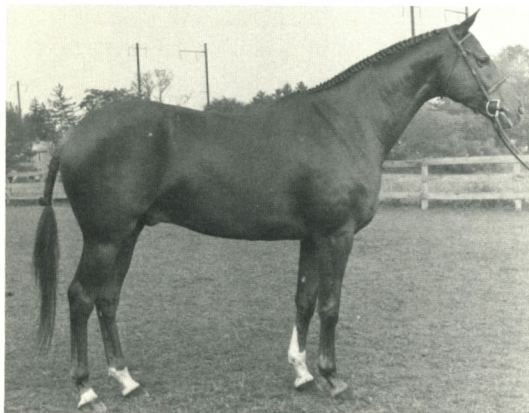

James Monie, a director of the association, said following the first Equitation Day: "I think this type of competition could prove to be both educational and fun. We hope to sit down real soon and make plans for 1978." He added that since there is so much emphasis placed on horsemanship classes in other areas, perhaps other state organizations will follow Maryland's example.

► Shown on the cover was Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Newsweekly, by New World out of Spot News. Winning the Babylon Handicap at Aqueduct prompted a feature by columnist Red Smith in the New York Herald-Tribune, which was reprinted in THE MARYLAND HORSE. Wrote Smith: "Impressive ritual surrounded the victory of a horse named Newsweekly in the $10,000 Babylon Handicap. This beast is owned by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and it was the first time in six years that the cerise and white diamonds showed first at the wire in a New York stakes . . . Last time Vanderbilt's mod-ish snap-brim hat appeared in the winner's circle here was in 1941 when a filly named Petrify won the Matron Stakes at Belmont . . . Experts versed in Vanderbilt lore considered it unlikely that he would use any of the $9,325 prize money to buy a new hat. Instead, he bought a case of champagne which was delivered to the press box with a card reading, 'Compliments of Newsweekly.' Correspondents for daily newspapers consumed it unblushingly."

► On the Maryland racing scene, the fall opening of Laurel was dimmed by what writer Don Reed called, "a rather stupid ruling on the part of the stall committee of the New York tracks." Because of outbreaks of swamp fever in New England, the New York tracks ruled that "no horse shipping away from the New York ovals could return at a later date to keep engagements in New York." Maryland horsemen were irritated by this arbitrary ruling because New York had taken no other measures within the state to guard against the spread of swamp fever and, according to Reed, "of all the states acting to prevent any invasion of the disease, probably none took more prompt or vigorous courses than Maryland." Such great horses as Stymie and Armed were by this ruling prevented from leaving New York and coming to Laurel that fall. However, "despite this obstacle from New York sources, Laurel's early cards were marked by generous response on the part of horsemen."

► A lively account of the 66th Timonium State Fair's horse breeders' show revealed much draft horse activity, especially among Belgian fanciers. Mrs. E. S. Voss's Loretta was grand champion Belgian mare, retiring the trophy after five wins for her owner. The trophy had been donated eleven years before by Mrs. Voss.

► The Thoroughbred and hunter divisions of the Timonium Show were judged by Sydney Glass of West Chester, Pa., and were well filled. In the Thoroughbred stallion class, one which "caused considerable pondering and study" by the judge, the stallion New World was awarded the blue, with Golden Vein second; "the dark and promising Occupy got third money. Grey Coat was fourth; for all his age he had a genuine bloom on him and stepped spryly." Concerning the placing of recently-syndicated Occupy below Golden Vein, editor Humphrey Finney observed: "There was little reason to object to seeing solidly-built Golden Vein rated above the $50,000 son of Bull Dog on conformation alone . . . the value of a stallion, and accordingly the size of his stud fee, depends on a good deal more than conformation; bloodlines, racing records, and (you can't escape it) even 'fashions' of the racing world count heavily."

► A feature by M. H. Cadwalader titled "Stevens Service With a Smile" told of the famous catering company who "fed one million people over the Fourth of July weekend alone." Miss Cadwalader wrote, "The Stevens Company is always ready to help out its sportsmen friends in a pinch; recently when the Maryland Horse Show came up with a deficit on its books, the Stevens outfit sent a sizable check 'to help our pals out, down in Maryland.' We're Losing A Friend

Porter Hopkins says he will not run for re-election to the Maryland senate next year. "Twelve years," he adds, "are enough. It should be enough for a lot of other people down there, too. I'm toying with the idea of introducing a bill which would limit all state legislators to three successive terms in office."

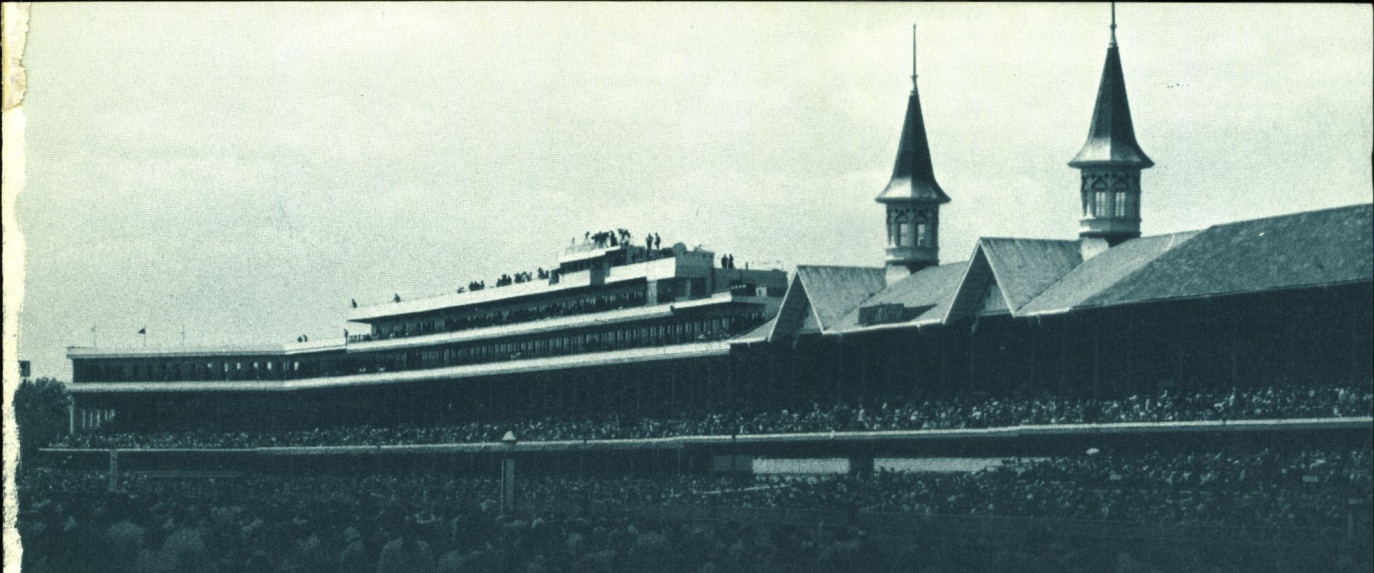

In case you don't know Porter, let me say that he is one strong friend of the racing industry. He is 47 years old, wealthy by inheritance, an avid conservationist and extremely smart. Being a Republican, he loses more battles in the General Assembly than he wins.

Every time horsemen have gone to Annapolis to argue for or against a particular piece of legislation, the support of C. A. Porter Hopkins has been a pillar to lean on.

We here at the Maryland Horse Breeders will miss our old friend in Annapolis, and we hope that after a little freshening on his farm he'll come back to the field of politics. We make that wish for selfish reasons.

Porter, you see, is a friend. And it's not often that a man can say that about a politician.

Dundee Marmalade

His sire, Sword Dancer, made history.

No one who witnessed it will ever forget the homestretch battle between English-bred *Tomy Lee and Sword Dancer in the 1959 Kentucky Derby. The performance was a tribute to the pure courage and tenacity of both horses. Stride for stride they bumped and fought their way through the stretch. Not until the final yards with some superb riding by Shoemaker did *Tomy Lee inch ahead by a nose.

For *Tomy Lee the Derby was to be his finest effort. Sword Dancer went on to win the Belmont, the Metropolitan Handicap, the Jockey Club Gold Cup, the Monmouth Handicap, the Travers and the Woodward Stakes and was voted Horse of the Year.

At stud Sword Dancer has transmitted that courage and stubborn persistence to his offspring. He has sired the outstanding Damascus, Horse of the Year and a top sire himself, and champion Lady Pitt, as well as $207,000 stakes winner Dundee Marmalade.

Dundee Marmalade looks very much like his sire . . . though larger and more powerfully built . . . and like his sire showed speed to equal the track record at Belmont for 6½ furlongs, stamina to win at 1½ miles, fortitude to start 62 times, an amenability to rating and the strength of bone and heart to make yet another effort in the drive. In short he has class. Dundee Marmalade won 13 races on dirt and turf, won or placed in nine stakes including Aqueduct's WESTCHESTER HANDICAP, Saratoga's FLASH and SANFORD STAKES, Santa Anita's EL MONTE and CAMINO REAL HANDICAPS, Pimlico's JENNINGS HANDICAP, etc.

Dundee Marmalade stems from the immediate female line that produced leading sire NATIVE DANCER.

His first foals will be yearlings in 1978. $1,000 Live Foal.

PEARL NECKLACE

Pearl Necklace, a 3-year-old filly by Ambernash owned by Reginald N. Webster and trained by Roger Laurin, revelled in the mud for Belmont's \$50,000-added Gazelle Handicap on September 3, leading at every pole and whipping the 1976 champion juvenile filly Sensational by $2\frac{1}{4}$ lengths. At two Pearl Necklace won the Tempted Stakes and this year in addition to the Gazelle was second in Saratoga's Diana and third in the Test and Prioress Stakes. Her latest victory in a \$30,000 Handicap on the turf at Belmont brings her career earnings past the \$150,000 mark.

PISTOL WHITE

John B. Merryman's Pistol White conceded his rivals from six to 13 pounds as highweight in Bowie's Chesapeake Handicap September 17 and fought off record-setting Tiny Monk in an exciting duel to the wire. Since his first start as a 4-year-old the big gelding has won nine of 24 career starts including the Quaker Handicap and $106,759.

TRADE MARKER

The first to represent his sire among the ranks of 1977 stakes winners, Trade Marker took the Clarendon at Woodbine in mid-summer. The colt races for the Goldmount Stable of brothers Mayer and Lou Lukofsky and is the first added-money winner to carry the Goldmount colors. His record in six starts this year is a very respectable 3 wins, 1 second, $23,211. Since he entered stud in 1968 Ambernash has carried on in the tradition of the leading sires from which he stems — Nashua — *Nasrullah — Nearco — Phalaris by siring nine stakes winners, and runners which have earned nearly $2.5 million.
